FIRST ASSAULT OF WAR AGAINST BIG JAP BASE

Attack by Hundreds of Planes May Be Continuing in Pacific Today.

S PACIFIC FLEET HEAD- PTERS, PEARL HARBOR, 18 — Japan's mighty naval of Truk, crowded with war- was attacked for the first in the war Wednesday. To- fficial silence left open the bility that powerful Amer- aircraft carrier task forces prolonged the heavy assault. The Tokyo radio, in a broad- ecorded by the U S for- broadcast intelligence serv- oday quoted the imperial quarters as saying an enemy force 'raided our positions he Truk islands since yester- morning," and that fierce ng is now going on between forces and the enemy.")

One reconnaissance pilot reported [illegible] warships in Truk's 0-mile-wide lagoon than "I ever [illegible] at one time in Pearl Harbor."

Admiral's Statement

Adm Chester W. Nimitz used the significant words, "commenced an attack," in disclosing the offensive wrath of the United States Navy had fallen upon the long secretly fortified bastion—some 200 volcanic formations, bristling with guns dotted with airfields, guarded by a fleet and encircled by a protective reef.

This blow fell less than two weeks after American conquest of Kwajalein atoll, keystone of the Marshalls more than 1,000 miles east of Truk, a conquest which afforded a lagoon base for the most powerful United States fleet et amassed in the Pacific.

Admiral Nimitz' cryptic announcement stated the attack was begun by "powerful naval task forces * * * with several hundred our planes participating."

Although there was no elaboration, there was nothing to in- e the escorting vessels had sked the concentrated fire of ipanese fleet units and shore tteries as well as defending p es to move in and shell Truk.

The assault carried the Amer- offensive past such Jap- nese-held bases as Eniwetok in the western marshalls and Kusie and Ponape in the eastern Carolines, the later hit only last nday by 55 tons of bombs.

Vital Supply Base

Truk is a vital supply base for such crumbling enemy bases as Rabaul and Kavieng in the South Pacific.

The secrecy surrounding Truk was not pierced until Feb. 4. On that day, it now can be disclosed, o Liberators made a daring ght to photograph Truk and brought back their precious pictures after eluding anti-aircraft fire and enemy planes.

House Sustains President's Veto of Anti-Subsidy Bill

Measure Rejected by Roosevelt in Vigorous Message, Pointing to Danger of Living Cost Rise.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—President Roosevelt today vetoed the anti-subsidy bill and the house promptly sustained the veto by a vote of 151 to 226.

The President said in his veto message the legislation was "an inflation measure, a high cost of living measure, a food shortage measure."

A two-thirds majority was required to override the veto. The vote was 226 to override the President, to 151 against.

The subsidy repealer was attached as a rider to a bill extending the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation which expired yesterday. Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) said the corporation would be continued by new legislation.

The legislation proposed to end government subsidy payments for food after June 30. In addition it would extend the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation until June 30, 1945.

Mr Roosevelt said that, in effect, would reverse a congressional policy and repeal the economic stabilization act.

He said no major warring nation had been able to stabilize living costs without subsidies and he did not see how the wage line could be held if the bill became law.

Once that line breaks he asserted, food costs will rise still further and all other costs will go up, including those of munitions and supplies for the armed forces.

Stabilization Threat

The Chief Executive told congress the legislation would destroy the stabilization program and "I can not accept responsibility for its disastrous consequences." He said he hoped congress would not compel these consequences.

The measure, Mr Roosevelt declared, would boost the government's cost of food index at least seven per cent and raise the entire cost of living materially.

Calling the roll on the added expense he said the housewife would encounter under the measure, he listed:

Ten cents a pound more for butter, nearly eight cents a pound more for cheese, an additional cent a quart for milk, an extra cent a loaf for bread, seven cents more for 10 pounds of flour, four cents a pound more for hamburger, four and one-half cents for pork chops, six and one-half cents for sliced ham three and one-half cents for chuck roast, and five cents for round steak.

Mr. Roosevelt urgently recommended that congress extend the life of the CCC, "without hampering restrictions," as soon as possible so farmers can make plans for planting with knowledge of support prices on which they can depend.

The legislation, he contended would boost costs for the Army and Navy by "many billions." Furthermore, he said, not only would it cost every American family more to buy necessities but it would cost more to run factories and farms.

"The weight of the increased burden," he said, "will fall on all of us, but most of all on the unorganized and others who live on small and relatively fixed incomes, among whom are most of the dependents of our fighting men."

Measure Won Easily

The subsidy repeal measure received topheavy majorities in both houses. It passed the house 278 to 117 on Nov. 23 and the senate, 43 to 28, last week.

The administration had sought subsidies in the amount of $1,500,000,000 for the purpose of holding down retail food prices during 1944.

The cost of subsidies on about 17 key food commodities, including meats, butter sugar, milk, and bread, exceeded $1,000,000,000 last year. Price Administrator Chester Bowles has predicted food prices would rise at least seven per cent without subsidies.

The bill would have authorized continuance of the present government program of support prices to farmers, crop loans and soil conservation payments.

It was the second presidential veto of an anti-subsidy measure within eight months. Congress passed a similar repealer last June, but the bill was vetoed promptly and the house sustained the veto July 2 on a 228 to 154 roll call that fell substantially short of the two-thirds majority necessary to override the veto.

In that instance, President Roosevelt's veto message contained the same description he used today—"an inflation bill, a high cost of living bill, a food shortage bill."

Anti-subsidy forces this time regard their chances of overriding the veto as improved. Their

1,000 LOST ON ARMY VESSEL

Troopship Sunk by Enemy Action in European Waters; 2,000 Men Aboard.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb 18— The Army has announced the loss of 1,000 American soldiers in the sinking, "due to enemy action," of an allied troopship in European waters. Approximately 1,000 men were saved but the toll was the greatest suffered by allied convoy forces.

The brief announcement gave few details but word from London that none of the survivors had been landed in Britain indicated the ship may have been bound for the Mediterranean although there is possibility the survivors may have been landed in Iceland, or returned to the western hemisphere.

The Army statement, which said the ship was struck at night, pointed out that the enemy probably does not know fully of the success of the attack, and that for this reason the date of the sinking was not disclosed.

A number of allied transports have been lost but never before with such a heavy death toll. The Navy disclosed the sinking of two cargo-passenger vessels in the Atlantic, about a year ago, in which 600 of the 900 on one ship were lost and about half of the 500 aboard the other. Only five lives were lost and between 4,500 and 6,000 saved when the President Coolidge struck a mine in the South Pacific Oct. 26, 1942.

"Military security now permits announcement of the sinking, due to enemy action, of an allied ship carrying troops in European waters on an undisclosed date. American soldiers in substantial numbers were aboard the ship, which was lost at night.

"In a heavy sea, the ship sank rapidly and 1,000 men were reported missing. Rescue efforts resulted in the saving of about the same number.

"The emergency addresses of all who are listed as missing have now been informed. There is reason to believe that the enemy does not know of the results of this attack and therefore the date is withheld."

SEVEN PLANES CRASH

Japan No Longer Dominates Pacific Without Challenge

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—The navy's assault on Truk island s the end of unchallenged Japanese domination in a huge area he Pacific ocean.

Whether it is to be seized or simply neutralized, this enemy earl Harbor goes into decline as a major obstacle blocking the ve to the Philippines now that American sea-air power has proved ability to attack it directly.

Considerable emphasis was laid here to the fact the Truk action followed by only half a month the invasion of the Marshalls and conquest of Kwajalein.

This was attributed to two factors the increasing weakness of Japan's central Pacific island defenses and the growing strength of the Pacific fleet which allows the Pacific command to strike swiftly and with massed power.

The Japanese can not know where the next blow is coming. Thus they are compelled to disperse rather than concentrate their strength.

American commanders, on the other hand, know not only where they are going to strike but are so confident of success that in broad strokes they have outlined the strategy. This is to [illegible] route across the [illegible] conquer the [illegible] a supply line to [illegible]

COUNTY OVER E BOND GOAL

Today's Total Is $827,940; Amount of All Issues Now $3,815,822.

Marion county went over the top in E bond sales yesterday, making its participation in the Fourth War Loan a decided success.

Yesterday's E volume amounted to $13,968 75 and this was more than enough to round out the $819,000 E quota for the county. Today's E total stood at $827,940.

Total sales yesterday were $14,098 25, making the county's total of all denominations $3,815,822 50, far beyond the $2,838,000 goal.

Robert E White, drive chairman, and Elmer J Schoenlaub chairman of the Marion county war finance committee, today expressed their appreciation for the cooperation given by Marion county residents in the Fourth War Loan. Every department of the big drive produced substantial results, they said adding that the school drive, the soldier war bond show at the Palace theater, the women's "Back Your Buddy with a Bond" campaign, the work of committees in factories and such special events as the LaRue bond auction had helped the county top its quotas comfortably.

They asked today that bond purchases go on without a letdown until the final day, Feb 28, and urged especially that an effort be made to place a war bond star in front of every name on the county honor roll by that date. Bonds for the buddy drive are being sold by the women's division through the Victory House at the courthouse. The purchaser of

RED PAINT SMEARED ON DOORS OF CHURCH

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 — Doors and stone walls of St. Patrick's cathedral in midtown Manhattan were found smeared today with designs crudely drawn with bright paint.

Police said the designs were in the shape of question marks with diagonal lines running through them. Other observers said the designs resembled the hammer and sickles emblem of the Communist party.

Catholic church officials and police hastened to the building, at 50th street and Fifth avenue, upon discovery of the deed.

In recent weeks vandals have inflicted damage on religious centers in other sections of the city. Gravestones have been overturned in cemeteries and churches entered and desecrated.

Two 13-year-old boys were blamed by police last night for $15,000 damage to the Bayside All Saints Episcopal church. The youngsters carried a snowball fight into the church, police said, finally pitching hymnals and bibles at each other and breaking windows, light bulbs and other ornaments.

Germans Flee Staraya Russa As Russians Outflank City

Berlin Announces Withdrawal from Strongest Base Between Leningrad and Smolensk.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 18 — The Germans announced today the evacuation of Staraya Russa, their mightiest base between Leningrad and Smolensk, in a broadening crackup of defenses which seemed to presage the complete German abandonment of northern Russia.

The Red army triumph south of Lake Ilmen came just a day after the Russians said they had completed liquidation of the German Eighth army trapped around Korsun near the Dnieper bend, inflicting on the enemy his worst single disaster in Russia since Stalingrad.

Marshal Stalin announced 52,000 had been killed and 11,000 captured from the ten divisions and a brigade. Another 21,900 had been killed in futile efforts to break open the trap bringing total German losses around Korsun to 84,900.

Berlin's account of the newest retreat toward the Baltic reflected Hitler's growing manpower crisis. The Germans asserted the retreat was necessary "to shorten the front and gain further operational reserves." Moscow has not yet confirmed the victory.

City Already Outflanked

Actually, Staraya Russa — A bastion on the Lovat river — had been outflanked by Russian offensives west from captured Novgorod, north of Lake Ilmen, and south from Leningrad to within 27 miles of Pskov. Other columns were 100 miles due west of Staraya Russa and astride the direct east-west railway retreat or supply line.

Evacuation of Staraya Russa gave the Russians control of all but the extreme western tip of Lake Ilmen and even there the rail junction of Shimsk seemed ready to fall.

The Germans countered Stalin's victory claim of last night with the assertion a tank force had broken through to the trapped remnants of the German Eighth army army in the middle Ukraine.

Another German dispatch said a Nazi storm troop formation at Narva, nine miles inside northern Estonia, had thrown back a Russian attempt to cross the ice-covered Narova river before the city. The Russians were said to have prepared the attack with a five-hour artillery barrage.

The Germans said the battle for Narva was growing more fierce every hour and that skies above the city glowed with fires.

9TH U. S. AIR FORCE EXPANDS IN BRITAIN

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb 18—The United States ninth air force, whose original elements wrote victorious air war history in the Middle East and Asia, has been established in Britain in reorganized and greatly expanded strength as the American aerial spearhead for invasion of Europe.

The supreme allied command announced last night the new Ninth has been joined with RAF ground support units to form the Allied Expeditionary Air Force under Air Chief Marshal Trafford L. Leigh-Mallory and that the unified group's first job would be "to knock the Hun out of the sky" in the opening phases of the coming battle of Germany.

Gen Dwight D Eisenhower's headquarters also announced appointment of Maj. Gen. William O Butler is Leigh-Mallory's deputy commander-in-chief of the expeditionary air force. Butler, 48, commanded both Army and Navy air forces in Alaska when the Japanese were driven from the Aleutians.

The ninth air force's commander, Maj. Gen Lewis H. Brereton, 53, formerly headed American air forces in the Middle East and India. He began the war as U. S. air commander in Manila.

DOG WINS BOUT WITH BURGLAR

Attacks Intruder at Sugar St. Home While Woman, Three Children Sleep.

"Buddy," a three-year-old Boston bulldog, did all right in defending his mistress from an intruder last night. Mrs Isaac Williams of 678 Sugar street reported to police at about 11 10 last night that a man had sneaked into the house through an unlocked kitchen door and was almost into the bedroom before the dog heard any noise.

She told police she was almost asleep and before she could get completely aroused, the dog had scrambled from under the bed, grabbed the man by a leg and forced the intruder from the bedroom into the kitchen without her seeing the man. Mrs Williams, who is partially crippled, was unable to get up immediately and the dog had fought with the man furiously enough to convince him that a hurried exit was "the thing."

Mr Williams was called from work, and when he arrived home, the kitchen door was still open and tracks were found leading from the house toward the Steam Shovel siding.

Mrs Williams and three of her children were in the house at the time. She said the children were not awakened by the incident.

POLES MAY RESIGN TO APPEASE RUSSIA

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb 18 — London Poles said today the exiled Polish cabinet may bow to Moscow's demands and resign, thereby enabling Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk to form a new government acceptable to and capable of dealing with Russia.

Although reports of a possible resignation were denied in official Polish circles, Poles in close touch with the exiled government admit privately cabinet changes are possible to meet Soviet demands for removal of some of the members Moscow has accused of being anti-Russian.

Other reports said the cabinet's decisions on Moscow's newest boundary proposals were being transmitted to Premier Joseph Stalin by Prime Minister Churchill. The British prime minister was said to have sent one message to Stalin and is now preparing a second, possibly telling Stalin the Poles might be prepared to accept the boundary terms and order the Polish underground to take up arms against the Germans alongside the Russians.

Acceptance of Moscow's boundary proposal and an order to the underground to collaborate with the Red army would remove two of the greatest stumbling blocks to Russian-Polish accord, leaving changes within the Polish government the principal remaining problem. Formation of a new government apparently would solve that obstacle.

Russia's boundary proposals, as reported unofficially yesterday, would fix Poland's western border along a line extending from Kolberg in Pomerania through Oppeln in Upper Silesia, giving the German southern Baltic port of Koenigsberg to Russia and Danzig to Poland.

TROOPS ATTACK TOWN AFTER HARD SHELLING

Air Support Helps U. S. and British Turn Back Nazi Beachhead Blow.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES Feb 18—Allied troops, moving under cover of a thundering six-hour barrage from hundreds of guns, one of the most intense of the Mediterranean war, began an attack on the town of Cassino and the slopes of Mt. Cassino before dawn this morning.

At the same time allied headquarters announced American and British troops on the beachhead below Rome, with the aid of one of the greatest air umbrellas ever raised in the Mediterranean, had beaten back the head-on attacks made by the Germans in an effort to drive the allies into the sea.

The attack on Cassino and Monastery hill was with the benefit of a deadly hail of steel which switched like a whip from the town to the mountain and back again where the Germans were holding out in pillboxes in the town and battle-blackened houses and around the ruined monastery of Monte Cassino.

The fire from these pillboxes prevented initial attempts to occupy the crest of Monastery hill just after a terrific bombing by Flying Fortresses and other aircraft which levelled the ancient abbey on Tuesday.

Troops Strike at Dawn

Just before the barrage ended shortly before dawn, allied troops went into the attack against the town where they have been inching forward for nearly two weeks in close-quarter combat in the streets and where they already held approximately one-third of the city.

On the Anzio beachhead the allies still were firmly holding their perimeter although the Germans yesterday twice broke through in bitter battle in one sector near Cisterna and were twice driven back.

The Germans attempted a frontal attack straight down the 10-mile stretch of road from Carroceto to Anzio, apparently willing to take enormous losses to carry out Adolf Hitler's demand that the British and Americans be driven off their springboard.

But they were met by a terrific smash from allied air might, including hundreds of Flying Fortresses and Liberators which made the greatest heavy bomber effort ever waged in the Mediterranean area in support of ground troops.

Showering the enemy with thousands of anti-personnel and fragmentation bombs and other missiles, the big bombers attacked all along just behind the Germans' front.

Clearing weather also saw medium and lighter bombers roaming the battle area and plastering the enemy almost at will.

Allied airmen carried out 1,500 sorties, one of the biggest days they have had.

Two Regiments Repulsed

Although this had the effect of pinning down German armor and infantry, bitter fighting still was raging along the beachhead.

Besides making his main effort down the Via Anziate toward Anzio, the enemy also struck in the Cisterna area. Two regiments penetrated into allied lines, but allied headquarters said the American-British position was re-established by prompt counterattacks.

At other points, too, German thrusts were repulsed before any breakthrough was achieved.

As in launching their offensive Wednesday morning, the Germans supported their drives with intense artillery fire, and sent larger than usual formations of their airforce to support the drive, sending out 185 sorties.

American heavy bombers flew almost double their previous record of close support sorties, however, while RAF Wellingtons continued the attacks for the sixth night in succession.

FORT RILEY, Kas.—Pvt. Joe Driscoll of the 29th Cavalry lost his watch three months ago on maneuvers in Jug Canyon. The other day the troop was back maneuvering on the same area. A reflected ray of light caught Driscoll's eye and he picked up his watch. He wound it and it ran again, just as well as ever.

The U. S. Army Air Forces had a total of only 159 four-engined bombers on Dec. 7, 1941.

How Blitzed London Views Berlin Blitz

LONDON BLITZ. English, who recall their own bomb agony of '40-41, wonder how—

BERLIN BLITZ, far heavier, can rumble on without wider cracks in German morale.

By E. C. DANIEL

(Who has just returned from The Associated Press bureau in London.)

NEW YORK—As the systematic destruction of Berlin goes on and on into the Allies' victory year, the wonderment of Londoners increases — wonderment that the German capital, repaid in full and with interest for the blitzing of London, still lives.

Every additional thousand tons of bombs laid across the blackened map of Hitler's biggest city brings a whistle of amazement from the people who endured 90 successive nights of hell in 1940 and 1941. They still say—though I doubt it—that London could not have taken many nights more.

Equally astounding to Londoners, who have already begun to patch up their shattered city, is the prospect of rebuilding Berlin, which even in mid-December was reckoned to have been three-fifths destroyed.

London't plan of reconstruction, not yet settled, is viewed as a task not of years but of decades. And London, although official figures have never been given, is not in my estimation more than ten per cent destroyed, if that much.

In a way, Londoners think, the Berliners have it easier than they did. Through the fall, winter and spring of the blitz, the sirens sounded with nightfall. The drone of planes and the whistle of bombs continued throughout the night. A sleepy dawn brought the all-clear.

With each additional night, the oppressive fatigue increased. Only the blessing of exhausted sleep, irresistible in spite of everything, saved the nerves and bodies of Londoners.

Berlin Spared Much Fatigue

Berlin gets a different dose—concentrated flash raids, at least five times as heavy as the heaviest on London, but over and done within thirty minutes. Those who are not fighting fires may sleep afterwards, and the raiders do not return relentlessly every night.

It is at least five times as far from Britain to Berlin, even in a straight line, as it is from France to London. Experience proves that the RAF loss rate is lower for each minute less that the bombers remain in the air. Swift attack saves planes.

While flash raids may be easier on morale, they build up fires which sometimes are impossible to check. They must be allowed simply to burn out and the resulting destruction is greater than piecemeal bombing alone could ever accomplish. London's vastest areas of destruction are those gutted by fire.

So far, London has neither time, labor nor materials to begin rebuilding. Windows have been replaced. Huge oaken flying buttresses straddle many sidewalks, propping up cracked and sagging houses. The exposed ends of ripped-open buildings have been patched. Burned-out upper floors have been scaled off, making those below usable.

To Save Pedestrians

The gaunt skeletons of buildings, which for months stood sentinel over littered cellars have been knocked down. Empty building sites next to the sidewalks have mostly been enclosed in fences of salvaged bricks to save pedestrians in the blackout. Only those ruins which are sturdy and can be reconstructed have been left.

It was a painful process, done by a few men and trucks and steam shovels. But it has left the face of London cleaner.

The big job—the widening of London's architectural vistas and the building of better homes—must wait. Berlin, meanwhile, has received in the past two months alone upwards of 15,000 tons of destruction from the RAF.

The United States reached its present continental size mainly by purchase of territory, between 1880 and 1853.

War Transforms Algiers

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Writer

ALGIERS—Algiers, picturesque and tranquil in times of peace, has been transformed by war into a busy and noisy military city whose pulse-beat has hit a new high.

The population has jumped many thousands over its normal 300,000 peacetime mark and its colorful winding streets are today filled with American, British and French troops, smart looking WACs, sailors of the Allied fleets, veiled native women wearing their hauaks, which look like shrouds, and barefooted Arabs, whose red caps bob about like poppies in a field.

Streets Full of Traffic.

From early mornings until the dimout at dusk, the streets resound noisily to the mutter and jerk of jeeps and trucks and the shrill incessant toot of motor car horns and the clang and screech of tram cars rounding curves.

Amid all the furore, men and women on days that are bright and sunny, sit placidly at tables about their cafes, placidly indulging in a glass or two of French wine or a bottle of beer.

Scotch, rye and burbon can hardly be obtained and then only at black market prices.

Except in Army and Navy messes, food is scarce and restaurants few and far between. A good meal at a black market restaurant costs a stiff price. Fruit is fairly plentiful, particularly oranges, which are just as good and juicy as those produced back home in Florida or California.

Hotels Without Heat.

A haircut and a shave costs 40 francs or 80 cents. American money, which is cheap enough. Other necessities, however, are plenty expensive.

There is no heat even in the high priced hotels, most of which accentuate the January chill. Breakfast in your room is simply out of the question. For one thing, there are no eggs and no ham either. If you want to really eat, you go out to the Army or Navy mess.

Stores are understaffed, many of them displaying wide expanses of barren shelves and some being closed for the duration. Men in uniform do their shopping at the "PX" under an Army ration system. There the soldier can get necessities such as soap, razor blades, towels, tooth brushes, handkerchiefs, shirts, writing tablets and a limited amount of cigars and cigarets.

Casbah Out of Bounds.

The Casbah, or native quarter, is "out of bounds" to the men in the service. The Casbah is a drab, miserly area which quarters 9,000 prostitutes. It is strictly patrolled by "MP's" who close up any house or crib found catering to American or British soldiers or sailors.

Uniformed men in the Casbah are taken into custody and the women involved are locked up for forty-eight hours. The women are forced to undergo venereal tests twice weekly at the Casbah dispensary.

Guides point out to visitors the De la Casbah as the street down which Hedy Lamarr walked in the picture "Algiers." If Hedy actually trudged along this silly thoroughfare past the hovels and cribs on each side of it, she must have gotten an eyeful, for a sadder, more miserable sight can hardly be seen anywhere in the world. Most visitors take a quick look and vow "never again."

Algiers claims one unique distinction: the city's few street car lines are more overcrowded than Times Square subways during the rush hour.

Civilians cling to the outside of the three-car trams as they clang noisily down the street. Time and again trucks swoop along the streets and side-swipe the trams, precipitating the clinging passengers headlong to the pavement.

The per capita rate of death by street car accidents in Algiers is said to be as high as any place in the world.

Former Ohio Newsman Dies in Washington

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—Donald MacGregor, 53, former Ohio, New York and Washington newspaperman and political writer died yesterday at Mt. Alto hospital after a lengthy illness.

MacGregor, a native of New Philadelphia, O., was a Washington correspondent for the old New York Herald during the Wilson administration. Previously he had worked on the New Philadelphia Times, the Cleveland Press and Des Moines News.

He went to London for the Herald before this country entered World war I, but returned upon America's entrance into the conflict and was commissioned a captain in the signal corps. He was author of the history of the signal corps in the war.

MacGregor was an assistant director of publicity in the 1920 Democratic presidential campaign of James M. Cox and in 1928 was publicity representative for the late Senator Joseph T. Robinson in his campaign for the vice presidency. He was connected with Wendell Willkie's campaign in 1940.

Funeral services will be held Saturday in the Fort Myer, Va., chapel and burial will be in Arlington national cemetery.

Ohioans May Vote on Illegal Ballots

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18—Ohioans will vote on illegal ballots this year unless the war production board modifies its regulations on paper, Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert informed Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel yesterday.

The WPB has ruled that paper no heavier than 45 pounds a ream be used, Herbert said, while Ohio law specifies that ballots must be printed on 50-pound weight.

Herbert requested Hummel to instruct local elections boards to obtain bids for ballots on paper of both weights pending requests that the WPB modify its regulation.

Herbert added Ohio ballots would not be invalid even though cast on the lighter paper.

Tabernacle To Be Dedicated Sunday

Rev. C. W. Finch, above, of Marion, district superintendent of the Christ Gospel Ministers' association of central Ohio, will be in charge when a Gospel tabernacle is opened Sunday in the building at 169 West Center street. A dedication service and "old fashioned songfest" will be held at 2 p. m. A nine-night meeting will open in the tabernacle Monday at 7:30 p. m. with Rev. Robert L. Philips of Marion, known as the "middle-of-the-road evangelist" giving Bible messages followed by "Scripture visualized" sound moving picture films. The room where services will be held was redecorated recently and will seat approximately 225 persons. Rev. Finch, who will act as pastor of the tabernacle has opened a number of churches in Marion county and surrounding communities.

300 at Air Depot Dance; Army Band Furnishes Music

Employes of the Army Air Forces Specialized Storage Depot, located on the Scioto Ordnance Plant site, held a dance last night at Hotel Harding ballroom with the 661st Army Air Corps Band from Patterson Field, a 29-piece military musical group now visiting a number of military installations, furnishing the music.

Major R. G. Shank, commanding officer of the depot, arranged for last night's event and also for a rally of the workers during the noon hour yesterday in the interests of the Fourth War Loan. The band presented a concert at the depot during the noon gathering.

More than 300 persons attended last night's social gathering. The band today moved on to an installation at Shelby. The group is led by Chief Warrant Officer Hensoth, a former symphony leader, and the soloist was Sgt. Paul Bakeman, former radio entertainer. Lt. Fred Goldman and Lt. Frank J. Pendergast were the officers in charge of the band's visit.

SHIP SETS RECORD AS CREW PASSES SHELLS

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 18—Assignment of merchant crewmen as ammunition-passers enabled the Liberty ship James G. Blaine to knock down four German planes in a convoy battle in the Mediterranean sea last fall, according to her skipper, Capt. Harry W. Lyon of Paris Hill.

Lyon told the West Yard Foremen's club of the New England Shipbuilding Corp. Wednesday that with the merchant seamen passing shells, the Navy gun crews were able to concentrate on firing and in the 32-minute battle the Blaine fired 4,000 rounds while the next-best record among the merchant ships was 1,800.

Describing the battle against 27 Nazi planes, Capt. Lyon said:

"Just at sunset the planes came diving out of the sun, so low we couldn't fire at first for fear of hitting other ships in the convoy. One of them hedge-hopped another ship to loose a torpedo at us. We let him have it with our three-inch gun. The plane, only 100 feet above the water, disintegrated.

"Then two came at us, one from each side. The one to starboard loosed a torpedo but must have banked just as he did it, for that deadly missile, headed straight for us, also banked and almost scrapped our planes as it slid by.

"By this time all our guns were going, and we could see the glass chipping off the plane's cockpit just before it burst into flames and cartwheeled into the water. About the same time we brought down the plane on our port beam. Another Jerry came at us but we chased him off trailing smoke."

Lyon was navigator for the late Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith in the plane Southern Cross which made the first trans-Pacific flight in 1928.

Approximately 40 per cent of the total aircraft employes in the U. S. are women.

VOTE BOARDS GIVEN ORDERS

Hummel Directs Restoration of Soldiers' Names to Voting Lists.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18—All Ohio election boards had orders today to restore to their registration lists names of any men or women in the armed services whose voting rights had been taken away because of failure to mark ballots in the past two years.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel issued the order, but said those who had become 21 years old since leaving for war service would have to register before they could vote. Provision for their registration is expected to be arranged by the legislature in a special session to be called by Gov. Bricker after congress acts on soldier vote legislation.

The state law which required removal from registration lists of eligible voters because they had failed to vote in the past two years now will apply only to civilians, Hummel said.

His order came only a few hours after Common Pleas Court Judge John R. King of Franklin county, in a mandamus action brought by Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett, ordered the county election board to restore names of service men removed under the old provisions of registration.

Judge King held that under the constitution no person could be denied his right to vote because it had been impossible to exercise that right while in the armed services.

In Cuyahoga county, the prosecutor advised his elections board several days ago not to remove the servicemen's names. An action similar to that ruled upon by Judge King is pending in Trumbull county.

Nearly 2,000 In Marion Co. Affected

Marion county election officials said they had no immediate way of knowing how many names of men and women in the armed forces had been removed from the voter registration files in recent months because of failure to vote in the last two years, but said the number might approach the 2,000 mark. Some 5,000 names were taken from the registration files since the last election because of registrants' failure to vote.

Dewey Popularity in Pennsylvania Shows Big Increase

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 18—The popularity of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as a presidential candidate has increased sharply since early December among Republican voters polled by the Institute throughout the Keystone state.

The New York governor is not only the top choice of Pennsylvania Republicans interveiwed in the survey, but receives more votes than all other candidates combined. Pennsylvania's delegation to the GOP convention will have a voting strength of 70—second only to Governor Dewey's home state, New York.

Results in the present survey and in a comparable study last December are given below.

	Today	Dec.
Dewey	51%	36%
Willkie	22	29
MacArthur	18	19
Stassen	4	5
Bricker	3	5

In the latest survey, Governor Earl Warren of California, and Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, each received one per cent. In the December poll, Senator Robert Taft of Ohio received 6 per cent of the vote.

The Pennsylvania survey was completed just before Willkie, Governor Dewey and Governor Bricker made their widely-publicized Lincoln day speeches. What effect these addresses outlining the position of the candidates on various subjects will have on Republican sentiment throughout the country will be reflected in future surveys by the Institute.

BRICKER TO SPEAK

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18—Gov. Bricker will address Boston University's institute on postwar problems March 12. Bricker is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

In World War I he became an ace with 23 planes to his credit, led famed "Flying Circus" after Von Richthofen's death. He won reich's highest medal for valor.

In Peace Goering rose rapidly under Hitler, helped organize Storm Troops; became president of reichstag where he engineered appointment of Hitler as chancellor. He built German air force, organized secret police, set up concentration camps, ordered extermination of dissenters, was made Field Marshal.

In World War II he first boasted that no bombs would fall on reich, then saw Luftwaffe hammered on east and west fronts after France's fall. But he continued to amass wealth, taking over steel plants, mines, shipping. He is reputed to have hidden away fortunes in Italy, South American countries and Switzerland.

Goering the Man is rotund, ruddy of face, has thin lips, steely eyes but a jovial manner. He speaks in coarse vernacular, enjoys hunting and collecting art treasures and reportedly looted Europe's museums for his personal collection.

HOLDS MACHINEGUN TO BLAST OUT JAPS

The following story distributed by The Associated Press was written by Tech. Sgt. Gene Ward of New York City, a Marine Corps combat correspondent.

A MARINE BASE IN THE PACIFIC—(Delayed) — A fighting Marine from Ohio, who cradled a barking machine gun in his arms to smash a Jap position during the battle of Tarawa, won the praise of his commanding officer here.

He is Sgt. Eugene L. Hill of Uniontown, who picked the machine gun bodily and fired it as if it was a rifle or submachine gun.

Hill was attached to an initial assault group when the Marines landed on the beaches of Betio island. His unit was attacking a strong Jap position set up in the emplacement of a disabled five-inch gun.

He was at the trigger blasting away at the enemy when return fire damaged the tripod of his machine gun beyond repair. It was then that he picked it up in his arms stood up and exposed himself to Jap fire and turned it on the enemy again. Tracers from his gun finally ignited a powder magazine and blew the Japs sky high.

Lt. Col. Arnold F. Johnston of La Jolla, Calif., commanding officer of the Marines, described Hill's action as "initiative and gallant execution of a hazardous task in a manner beyond the call of duty and a material contribution to the success of the operation."

The average airframe weight of airplanes produced now is twice as great as a year ago.

RUBBER PLANT BLAST HURTS 7 AT AKRON

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Feb. 18 — Seven persons were injured early today by an explosion and fire that for a time threatened to reach chemical tanks of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. synthetic rubber plant.

Company officials said cause of the blast was undetermined. They declined to estimate damage immediately.

The East Akron area was rocked by the explosion about 1 a. m. Firemen worked more than two hours before the fire was under control and the chemical tanks saved.

Three of the injured workmen were treated and these four were hospitalized for treatment of burns and glass cuts:

George Kowcber, Edward Clark, 31, and John Hoffman, 47, all of Akron, and Wallace Sinclair, 29, of Hudson.

Goodyear officials said only seven persons were in the building where the explosion occurred.

The synthetic plant is operated by Goodyear for the Defense Plant Corp. The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. also has a synthetic plant here.

In some major manufacturing industries less than $1 per worker was spent on safety equipment in 1943.

13 Army Nurses Escape Nazis in Albanian Air Disaster

By HAL BOYLE
AP War Correspondent

A U. S. AIR BASE IN ITALY, Jan. 9—(Delayed)—A little band of American Army nurses and soldiers, attired in an odd assortment of ill-fitting clothes, stepped gaily from the deck of a trim British naval launch today, ending a 60-day journey through Nazi-controlled territory during which they escaped death or capture countless times.

The dangerous game of hide-and-seek with the enemy started for the little party of nurses and soldiers when their big transport hospital plane crash-landed in the mountains of Albania early last November, after being lost in a thunderstorm and fired on by Nazi fighters.

Later as they trekked across the Albanian mountains they were caught in a Balkan blizzard which nearly brought their flight to a tragic end.

At the last they made a 26-hour forced march to a seacoast rendezvous after an attempted rescue by plane failed.

During the long journey three of the 13 American nurses in the party became separated from their companions during a frantic effort to escape from a Nazi patrol.

Michigan Nurse Tells Story

Reminiscing over the journey Lt. Agnes A. Jensen of Stanwood, Mich., a pretty 29-year-old brunette, senior nurse of the air evacuation squadron said:

"It all sounds exciting now, but looking back on it I think perhaps the cooties and fleas we all picked up caused us the most hardship."

The most heartbreaking moment of the journey came when rescuing planes, sent to pick them up, were forced to leave because approaching German troops were in a position to sweep the landing field with heavy fire.

The transport took off from Sicily early in November for a routine flight to Italy to evacuate American wounded. Personnel of the ship included the American nurses, members of a T-3 hospital unit composed of orderlies, and the crew.

Almost immediately the big plane ran into a violent thunderstorm.

Hopelessly lost they flew for three and a half hours before they saw an airfield through a rift in the clouds.

Believing it to be a friendly field, the pilot, Lt. Charles B. Thrasher, of Daytona Beach, Fla., circled for a landing. He had no idea they were on the other side of the Adriatic. As the plane dropped lower tracer bullets screamed past the pilot's window and the nurses saw Nazi crosses outlined on planes parked on the field. Flak hit the tail of the unarmed ship as Thrasher started climbing. Two Nazi fighter planes took off.

Ducks Into Cloud

Thrasher ducked into a cloud and flew for another hour through the overcast.

Landing later in a flat spot in the mountains the party encountered a band of 15 or 20 men who told them they were in Albania.

Thrasher burned the plane to prevent its falling into German hands and the little party wandered from village to village seeking safety.

Finally they met friends who began formulating plans to aid them in returning to allied territory.

After the plane rescue failed the disappointed party resumed the long, devious walk to the coast, which they finally reached after a fatiguing 26-hour forced march.

That night they waited tensely on the rocky shores as a single row boat took them, a few at a time, out across the shallow waters to the waiting British launch. It was after midnight before the last of the little party was aboard. With muffled motors the launch turned and the rocky shores of Albania faded into the night.

"THROW ME OUT! I'm hit hard and no use to you now . . . I'll save 175 pounds and maybe get you back to England . . ." So pleaded Sergt. Forrest L. Vosler of Livonia, N. Y., radio operator on a Flying Fortress as he groped about in the big plane, blinded and bleeding from shell bursts. But the turret gunner on the shell-battered fort didn't throw Vosler out. The plane plunged into the English channel and Vosler crawled out of the radio hatch. At first doctors believed both Vosler's eyes would have to be removed. Lately there has been improvement. And his buddies are framing a recommendation for the congressional medal of honor for the plucky youth, shown in this photo.

Bricker's Washington Visit Boosts His Political Stock

Joseph A. Bors, former Ohio political editor for International News Service, saw Governor John W. Bricker for the first time in three years when the Buckeye state chief executive visited Washington. Although Mr. Bors has been Washington war news editor for INS since Pearl Harbor, he took time out to make a check of impressions made by Governor Bricker.

By JOSEPH A. BORS
International News Service Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 — A survey of opinion in newspaper and political circles indicated strongly today that Gov. John W. Bricker boosted his personal and political stock during his recent two-day visit to the nation's capital.

The concensus seemed to be that Washington newspapermen and G.O.P. leaders and legislators liked the way the Buckeye state chief executive conducted himself. They liked his straightforward answers to difficult questions concerning national and international policy.

However, it is too early to tell just how much effect Bricker's "invasion" of Washington will have on his chances to win the G.O.P. presidential nomination at the Chicago convention in June. Political writers shied away from any forecasts at this early date.

This writer was present when Bricker made his speech and answered questions before a capacity crowd at the National Press club. He might have been excused if he had fumbled an answer or two. But he didn't.

Praised by Commentator

Claude Mahoney, "homespun" Washington radio commentator, on two successive days told his audience how much he enjoyed meeting and hearing Bricker.

"I had a good time seeing Governor Bricker of Ohio when he was here," Mahoney said. "In the first place, it was rather refreshing to see someone who is openly—and above board—running for president and making no bones about it.

"I heard Bricker at a press conference, where he sat on a table and handled himself very well against a barrage of questions from some fast question tossers. . . .

"All in all, Governor Bricker made an excellent impression. On all sides I have heard praise for the spontaneity he showed in answering questions. It would be difficult—and foolish—to make any predictions about him at this time, but one thing can be safely said: He will make a vigorous campaign."

The Washington Post, a morning newspaper, liked the way Bricker spoke out boldly against labor leaders who permit strikes in wartime, and against the administration for not "cracking down" on such strikes. In an editorial, the Post said, in part:

"In his Lincoln Day banquet speech Governor Bricker might have played safe by confining himself to criticism of the administration's feeble labor policy without committing himself to any positive program of action.

"But he did not choose to play safe. Instead he unequivocally condemned strikes in wartime, regardless of course or provocation, and called upon congress to prohibit such strikes. . . .

"So long as political cowardice taints our labor policy, punitive legislation can accomplish little. For that reason it is highly encouraging that an aspirant for the presidential nomination who is also governor of a highly industrialized state should have expressed his mind without fear of consequences. . . ."

Makes Good Impression

Not all the comment was favorable, but few writers came away from meeting Bricker without commenting that they liked him personally and liked the way he talked "straight from the shoulder."

John O'Donnell, columnist whose articles appear in the Washington Times-Herald, said that "frankly, much as you like Bricker personally, it's hard to see him as the glamor boy who can lick Roosevelt — but perhaps the nation doesn't want glamor boys and families in the White House for a while."

One Republican politician who declined to be named said that as the result of Bricker's recent campaign speeches, he should go to the convention with a considerable bloc of delegates backing him.

It is certain, however, that the Washington political writers, and politicians from both camps, will be watching Bricker more closely as he swings around the country seeking support for the G.O.P. nomination.

TELLS HIS CUSTOMERS ABOUT ALL-BRAN

And How It Helped Relieve His Constipation!

Here's a really enthusiastic letter you'll want to read:

"I'd suffered for years with constipation. Took everything from salts to castor oil, and felt run down, always taking so many physics. Then, two weeks ago, I found out about ALL-BRAN. Since I've been eating ALL-BRAN, I have needed no physics, and am starting to feel like a new man. I'm telling my customers on my milk route about your wonderful product." Mr. Leon Swartz, 1735 N. Wilton St., Phila., Pa.

What's the secret of such reports of ALL-BRAN's results? Simply that ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of certain "cellulosic" elements—lack of which in sufficient quantities is a common cause of constipation! They help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic contents for easy, natural elimination. ALL-BRAN is not a cathartic! It doesn't "sweep you out"! It is a gentle-acting, "regulating" food! If this is your trouble eat ALL-BRAN regularly, drink plenty of water. See if you don't cheer its welcome relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Pillboxes Built for Comfort

By HAL BOYLE
AP War Correspondent

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY AT CASSINO, Feb. 4—(Delayed)—A captured Nazi pillbox made a good telephone exchange for one group of American doughboys attacking Cassino.

"It's got everything in it but hot and cold running water," said Sgt. Laurel Bergman of Waverly, Iowa, a wire chief who maintained liaison between forward elements with his field switchboard.

"It was a two-man pillbox and had a foot lever by which you could pump in fresh air through a ventilator. There were two periscopes in the roof. It also had a lever to open a slot in front through which they could poke out their machineguns and sweep the valley. From down there you couldn't pick this pillbox up even with field glasses, it is so well camouflaged."

The pillbox had a shell of steel plate about an inch and a half thick, and this was further protected by layers of concrete and heavy rock. Nothing short of a direct hit by heavy artillery could puncture it.

"It has shelves for ammunition and flares," said Bergman, pointing behind another soldier, Pvt. Lloyd Helton of Davis City, Iowa, who was sleeping on the floor of the pillbox.

"There are also two nice wooden seats in here. The Germans could just sit here firing at us, stand up and take a squint through their periscope, then sit down again and shoot some more. They sure had a comfortable life while it lasted."

The pillbox was typical of dozens built by the Germans in this fortified area in recent months, a positive indication they intended it to bulwark their winter line. After seeing these defenses you wonder all the more how the doughboys and the tankmen stormed across the barbed wire and minefields in the soggy Rapido river valley and knocked out these hellish nests. They had to face murderous fire every inch of the way.

"There were some other shelves in here to store food," said Bergman, "but all the Germans left behind were two cans of meat, some crackers and a few cigarets. I tried the meat. It tastes like what I imagine horse meat would taste like. I suppose that's their version of our C rations."

The pillbox had an escape hatch behind, but all the Jerries didn't get to use it.

The highest clouds are 50 miles above the earth.

Three Tokyo Raiders To Be on Air Sunday

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—Radio is to attempt a "reunion" of three of the men who participated in the bombing of Tokyo by bringing them together in the same program at 6:30 Sunday night on CBS. They are to speak from widely separated parts of the world.

Maj. Gen. James Doolittle, commander of the Eighth Air Force who led the raid, is to come on from London; Capt. Ted Lawson, who lost a leg when his plane crashed after the bombing, is to come on from Santiago, Chile; and Rear Admiral Andrew Marc Mitscher, who commanded the carrier Hornet from which the planes took off, will be heard from somewhere in the Pacific.

The program, "We The People," also will include Bob Trout speaking from the deck of the carrier, Shangri La, soon to be launched.

Army Now Approaching Maximum of 7,700,000

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—The Army is approaching its planned maximum of 7,700,000, Secretary of War Stimson reported today at a news conference.

Asked if the Army planned to limit inductions in the future to able-bodied men for combat replacements, reducing the inductions of men for limited service to a minimum, Stimson said:

"The primary need now is for combat replacements, since limited service requirements can be filled by recovered battle casualties. Therefore, inductions must be limited mainly to combat replacements."

An Airtight Maginot Line

GERMANY'S reliance on the Maginot line theory of defense is now stated without apology by spokesmen for the German army. Newest development is the announced completion of airtight defenses on the coast of Denmark. Neither these nor any other section of the defenses against invasion, Germans are reassured, can be outflanked—the fatal weakness of the original Maginot line.

But what must Germans, themselves, think as they remember how the supposedly fool-proof Maginot line which France built at great expense was outflanked not only by the military break-through in Belgium but by their "fifth column" inside France? Will they believe that ruthless police work has eliminated a similarly strong Allied "fifth column" in France, as well as Denmark, Norway, Belgium, and the Netherlands?

Furthermore, will Germans believe their vaunted defense, stretched from Norway south through the Bay of Biscay and east in the Mediterranean to the Straits of Bosporus cannot be outflanked by military action? After all, it was Germany, itself, which proved the fallacy of the theory of static defense—the same Germany which now asks its own people to believe the theory is fool-proof.

Battle of the Solomons

GEN. MACARTHUR'S judgment is that successful seizure of the Green islands, lying north of the Solomons athwart the southern approach to New Britain and New Ireland, ends the battle of the Solomons.

Some of the hardest fighting of the war has been over these islands that nobody wanted until Japan began to use them for the isolation of Australia. American lives and resources have been spent on them freely for a year and a half to wrest them from the Japanese. Gen. MacArthur says the job now is done; that the remaining Japanese will starve to death because they no longer can be supplied.

As if to remind his countrymen of the tremendous task which still lies ahead of them now that another outpost has been defeated, Gen. MacArthur uses the occasion to point out that Japan is no longer an island empire, but a continental power with its greatest resources lying in Asia, itself. When all the outposts have been taken or surrounded, the United States and Great Britain still must defeat the Japanese army on the mainland. Gen. MacArthur agrees with Adm. Nimitz, who recently declared that naval strategy was aimed at establishment of military force in China, as the prelude to attack on Japan.

Pacific strategy, being so vast in scope that even the strategists must be divided into separate commands to deal with its problems, is understood only imperfectly by civilians. But there is no room for doubt in their minds about the purpose behind statements like those made by Gen. MacArthur and Adm. Nimitz. The people are being warned that of the two wars in which the United States is engaged, the war with Japan promises to be the greater trial of American determination.

Danger Signal

THE question of uncensored news from Britain, which Undersecretary of State Stettinius has answered with a previous statement by Secretary Hull opposing political censorship, ultimately must be answered by evidence that American newspapermen actually are free to report British news as they see it. They do not have that privilege now.

The censorship question has been reopened by appointment of two British foreign office advisors to the main British censorship office for the apparent purpose of passing on news scheduled for transmission to this country. American correspondents in Britain allege this is a move to muzzle them, since there is no military security involved, but only a seeming intent to stop at the source any news originating in Britain which might be embarrassing at the political level, unless the news already has been published in the British press.

The implications of such censorship are too plain to need detailed description. If, as Mr. Stettinius declares, the British officials were not added to the censorship office on this government's recommendation, and if Secretary Hull's previous declaration favoring untrammeled transmission of dispatches in which there is no connection with military security still obtains, then there must be a showdown.

It will astonish many newspaper readers in the United States to realize that such a thing even could be attempted. That becomes the justification for explaining what might seem to be a technical problem in obtaining news from abroad: The tradition of a free press lives with the people and is only held by the press in trusteeship. It becomes the duty of the press, consequently, to inform the people when their rights are threatened. Until the British government makes plain that it does not intend to stifle information about events in Britain on the grounds of embarrassment to itself or the government of the United States, the danger signal will fly over the people's right to a free press.

Mid-Stream Model Changing

From Automotive War Production.

The miracle of war production, now being taken for granted, was accomplished by the hard work, ingenuity and courage of millions of unknown and unsung citizens who refused to give up in the face of adversity. This report from the publication of Automotive Council for War Production, clearing house for information on war production in the automobile industry, tells how the results are made possible.

WARS are won or lost, Tolstoy pointed out, because of that unknown quantity X, standing for the human element. Morale, backbone, grit, determination, ability to withstand reverses—are components in that unknown.

On the fighting front, battles are won by that type of commander who can march his men across mountains, deserts or raging rivers to meet the enemy—and when the strategy of the war demands, march them back across those physical obstacles with their morale intact.

Home front "battles," too, are won by the management and workers who can "take" orders to reverse their steps after a long industrial march, and who then are able to apply their energies in another direction on another assignment.

In the automotive industry, management repeatedly has been called upon to supply leadership and drive to keep its war production job humming, in the face of such "reverses."

Nearly two billion dollars' worth of contracts and subcontracts, for example, already have been cancelled in the automotive industry, as a result of the constantly changing strategy of the Allied high command and shifting tides of battle. Production schedules of scores of other jobs have been reduced, as the requirements of the armed forces have called for increasing quantities of some weapons and lessened the demand for others.

Many of these setbacks on the home front have come even before "production soldiers" have had a chance to "fire a single shot." After covering the long and tough road of preparing blueprints, laying out plants, arranging assembly processes, and tooling up machines, workers and management have been ordered to "fall back" and make a new "attack" on another weapon.

Paul Mallon, whose Washington column, "News Behind the News" ordinarily is published five days each week on the editorial page of The Star, has been ordered by his physician to take a brief rest. When he resumes writing, his articles will again appear in The Star.

MAINTAINING worker morale in the face of such wartime conditions and bringing the utmost energy to bear on the new objective, calls for the most capable leadership that automotive management has been able to muster.

A graphic example may be shown from the recent case of one automotive company that had spent 15 months in preparing an old railroad factory for production of a new streamlined tank, only to have the contract cancelled and a new product ordered, just as the first models were coming off the line.

To incorporate battlefront lessons, such as those learned in the El Alamein campaign, in the new tank, it underwent many engineering changes during its development stage. In all, orders for more than 5,400 changes came through from ordnance officers, with the original 20-ton model finally emerging as a 28-ton job.

It took from December, 1941 to March, 1943, before all the major "bugs" had been ironed out, and the asembly lines began filling up with tanks. Some were nearly complete, some were awaiting installation of bogey wheels or guns, others were just beginning to take shape at the beginning of the line. All along the assembly lines, parts and sub-assemblies were stacked up, ready for installation. More than 250 hulls were completed before a single tank had rolled off the line.

Workers and management alike, at last seeing results from their months of hard work, justifiably were proud.

Then the news broke ... the army had cancelled the contract! Shifting emphasis on global battlefronts had relegated tanks to a lesser position, and production facilities were greater than the Army's requirements.

Understandably, morale sunk to the depths in this automotive plant and it was a thoroughly demoralized crew that trudged home that evening. For, after 15 months of effort, only 13 tanks—seven pilot models and six production models—had been built at an estimated cost of 36 1-2 million dollars.

IN place of the tank, the army wanted an 18-ton prime mover—a tracked vehicle rugged enough to climb the mountainous terrain of Italy and powerful enough to plow through the mire of New Guinea.

An open-top vehicle, the prime mover carries an eight-man crew and a full supply of ammunition for the 155 mm. cannon it hauls behind. About the only similarity between it and the tank is full tracks of both vehicles.

Yet, the need for the new weapon was urgent. Setting an example for the entire working force, management tackled the job with a vengeance. The disappointment of the previous effort was soon replaced with enthusiasm for the new task.

In rearranging the plant's 1,300 by 440-foot floor space, for example, it was necessary to move every one of the 1,154 tank machines, all of which were government owned. Eventually, 706 were converted to production of the prime mover, while the remainder were either shipped to other companies or placed in a vacant corner of the plant. The last of the tank equipment, including six huge vertical boring mills worth $25,000 each, were shipped to an army warehouse early this year.

Only about 10 per cent of the tank's jigs and fixtures were usable for the new contract; the rest had to be discarded as scrap. A battery of unique end-over cradle fixtures for welding the front, rear and top of the tank had to be ripped out and scrapped. Their pits, where they dipped below the floor level, had to be filled in before the space could be utilized.

Carloads of materials that were useless for the new contract were shipped out to other tank arsenals or scrapped. The 250 hulls that had been built in advance were cut up and remelted into raw materials. Each represented an expenditure of $16,000.

While tank machines and materials were going out, new equipment was arriving and being installed for production of the prime mover.

New bases had to be dug for a battery of drill presses. It took a month to acquire and install a network of individually-operated cranes for handling the prime mover parts. Two weeks was necessary for installing a special drawing furnace with a 10-foot underground foundation. It also required two open pits for handling the white-hot parts.

NEARLY three months was required for the complete transformation from tanks to prime movers. Though the army sought to eliminate a labor turnover during this period, by offering employment at a nearby government arsenal, this firm estimates that it lost 35 per cent of its best mechanics.

Before an accurate claim could be made for payment for work done on the tank contract, forms were farmed out to 431 first-tier subcontractors and to as many as 1,500 other suppliers.

In order to expedite this work and assist smaller companies, both the automotive firm and the army set up special termination departments.

Even with this assistance from the prime contractor and the army, termination proceedings are not yet complete. The status of the contract as of Dec. 31, 1943, was as follows:

A total of 363 claims had been settled in full. Eleven were in the hands of army ordnance officers awaiting approval. Fifty-five were being processed by the automotive firm, while four of the largest claims have not been filed. The latter are held up, awaiting claims from subcontractors.

Though the paper work is still to be completed, the plant today is running smoothly, turning out prime movers on schedule. But, typical of the unpredictable events of wartime, this contract already has been cut back 50 per cent

College Cutback

THE war department and navy are under strong congressional pressure to liquidate their college training program, reports United States News.

Recent announcements by the war department that the programs are being discontinued in 70 colleges as soon as present courses are completed have created widespread uncertainty and confusion. Students are uncertain about completing their courses. Prospective students are wondering if they will have a chance to enroll. Parents are getting into the discussion. Colleges dependent on income from the military programs are worried.

The army A-12 program, currently being reduced, supplies technicians and specialists in numerous categories. Future needs for specialists cannot be foreseen so the program may be reduced further, or might even be increased, depending upon the turn of the war. Men now enrolled will complete their courses unless urgently needed elsewhere. Aside from medical and dental students only a few of these are likely to become officers. New students are being enrolled in army courses at the rate of 3,000 a month. More than 10,000 have been graduated. Present enrollment in the A-12 program is approximately 140,000 in more than 200 colleges and universities.

The navy's V-12 program has about 67,000 men enrolled in more than 200 institutions. No cutback is contemplated. Most of the men will complete their training and most will become deck officers in the navy and coast guard or line officers in the marine corps. Men now are being graduated three times a year.

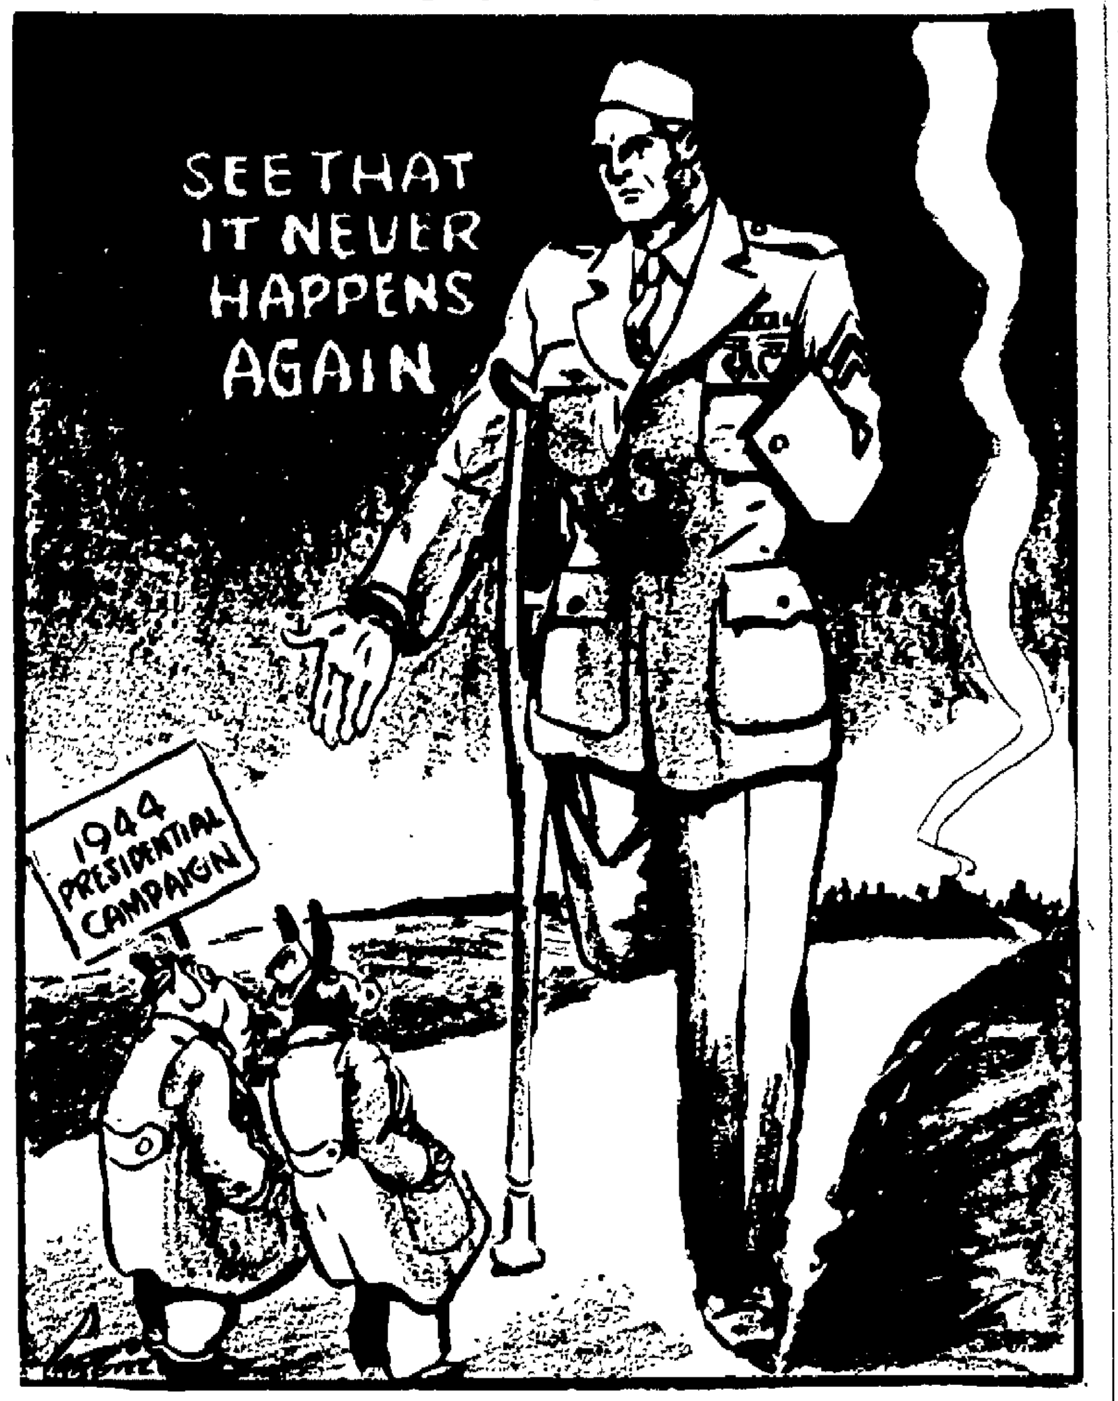
The extent to which the colleges and universities are dependent upon the military for support is shown by latest enrollment figures compiled by the U. S. office of education. These figures show that 384,050 out of 1,110,500 students, or more than one-third are in uniform. These include WACS, WAVES and other women's groups as well as students in the A-12, V-12 and air forces programs.

War-Nervous Stomachs

By The Associated Press

GLASGOW—Gastric illnesses and duodenal ulcers have become a scourge ranking with t.b. and rheumatic fever, Robert Mailer, surgeon at Victoria Infirmary here, believes. These complaints were results of worry, economic problems, restless living, snack meals, and the use of tobacco, he said.

1944 STUMP SPEAKER



SEE THAT IT NEVER HAPPENS AGAIN
1944 PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Feb. 18, 1934.

The First Presbyterian church was filled when Marion groups planning to participate in the Central Ohio eisteddfod the following Thursday at Mt. Vernon gave a public concert.

Paul S. Gilbert of Indianapolis was visiting his family on South Prospect street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wingerd of Marion avenue entertained with a family dinner in honor of the birthday anniversaries of Dr. W. H. Hinklin of Marion and Mrs. Annabel Howells Williams of Ridgeway.

Mrs. Fred White of Pearl street gave a surprise dinner in celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mr. White.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith of Congress street entertained a group of friends at a dinner.

Mrs. Fred Artz of North Main street, president of Province No. 2, Alpha Xi Delta sorority, returned from Granville where she attended the initiation and formal banquet of Beta Delta chapter, organized at Denison university.

Daniel Edward Zimmerman, 66, died suddenly at a Columbus hospital.

A new attendance record was set when 420 persons took part in Sunday school services at Emmanuel Baptist church on North Main street. A Booster Band program was presented.

Ralph Sipe was elected president when the Young People's branch of the W.C.T.U. met at the home of Mrs. Mary Jennings of West Center street.

Charles R. Randall, 71, former pattern maker at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. plant, died at his home in Titusville, Fla.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Feb. 18, 1924.

Secretary of the Navy Denby resigned from the cabinet of President Calvin Coolidge.

Miss Linna Diegel, dismissed the previous Friday as superintendent of the City hospital, was reinstated as head of that institution and James H. Eymon, director of public safety, issued a statement that she had "been singularly vindicated of the charges of incompetency." At the same time, five nurses who resigned when she was dismissed returned to their jobs.

Mrs. Horace Ballenger entertained with a luncheon at Hotel Harding complimenting Mrs. Louis Anck of New York City, guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry Task of Forest street.

The Advance club met at the home of Mrs. H. R. Schaffner on Bellefontaine avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snyder entertained members of the Full of Fun club at their home on Pennsylvania avenue.

Eastern Star chapters of the area organized a district body at a meeting in Marion Masonic temple, electing Mrs. Clarence M. Young of Marion as president.

Word was received by Marion friends that John J. Adair was playing one of the leading roles in the new Shubert theater production, "The Artists' and Models' Revue" in New York City.

Family Tree in Bible

By The Associated Press

MINDEN, La.—The war took Brooks Mims Talton of this city, as a radio operator in the Merchant Marine, to England. Curiosity took him to the old documents section of His Majesty's Library where he found a 400-year-old family Bible. On its fly leaves was written the history of the Mims family, which lived on Mims river in Mims, Middlesex county, Eng. The library has presented the family document to him.

Take One Step at a Time

Your Income Tax Return

This is one of a series of Associated Press articles prepared to assist in the preparation of income tax returns.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—Take one step at a time.

That's the most important thing to keep in mind while filling out your 1943 income tax return.

Follow each numbered direction on the return and forget about the other directions until you get to them. What makes so many taxpayers panicky is their confusion when they see — and try to figure out in a hurried reading — the large number of printed directions on the return.

Before starting to fill out the return, have on hand the pamphlet of instructions that accompanied your return and your work sheets with the necessary figures. These essential figures are:

1. Total 1943 income before taxes were withheld.
2. Amount of income and victory taxes withheld.
3. Your tax on 1942 income and the portion of it you paid in 1943.
4. The tax paid, if any, with declaration of estimated tax Sept. 15 and Dec. 15.

Your employer should have given you a statement of your 1943 wages before withholding and of the amount withheld. Figures giving your 1942 tax and the amount you paid on it should have been on a slip in the envelope with your 1943 tax blank. This slip is Form No. 1125.

Allowable deductions listed on work sheets will help you fill out the long form, 1040. If you use the short form, 1040A, you do not take any deductions except the credit for dependents. Deductions are automatically provided on the short form.

Don't get jittery about the "unforgiven" tax. Just follow the directions and if you have the necessary figures mentioned above it is computed almost automatically on both the long and short forms. Figuring the victory tax calls for more complicated arithmetic, but if you can do simple decimals and percentages it shouldn't be too tough.

Many internal revenue offices are swamped with taxpayers seeking help in making out their returns. If you run into a lot of trouble, obtain the aid of an acquaintance experienced in tax matters or some other reliable adviser. But don't delay making out your return until the last minute. A rush job may result in costly mistakes or omissions.

Oriental High Player

In New York They Still Reca
a Japanese Gambler Who Stuc
the Boys for $600,000 in 192

By DAMON RUNYON

SPEAKING of Japs, there was one arour New York City in the late '20's who w a gambling fool. He played higher than a ca back. His fadeout remains one of the clas mysteries of the big town to this day.

His name was something like Yamamo He was a silk and antiques importer. The fi time I ever heard of him was through a gamb acquaintance of mine who was sneaking wheel around New York in those days, meani he was operating roulette on the sly. He ha one setup in an elaborate pent-house.

Well, this gambler came along one noon wh I was standing in front of the tavern in We 48th street and said he had just come from bank over on Fifth avenue, where he had m with a terrible shock.

"I had a check for $50,000 from a Jap wh was in my place last night," he said. 'He want to go farther with me but I couldn't let hi because I didn't know who he was and he didn look like real big money to me. And I nev saw a Jap high player before.

"I was mighty dubious about that man gave me and I stayed up all night to get to t bank and shove it through. I know one of t officials there and when I handed him t paper I asked him to see if it was good. said, 'just a minute' and walked away. Wh he came back he whispered to me; 'The gen man's balance is $1,200,000'."

"THE shock to me," said my gambler frien "came when I got to thinking of ho much more I could have beat the Jap for."

I had forgotten all about that Jap until ran into Lester Allen, the little comedian, t other day. Lester was on the trip that is su posed to have been the last chapter in the Ja life, and he was one of many who were inte rogated so often about the matter by t authorities that it got to be a gag.

The William Morris theatrical booking offi in New York used to promote summer cruis on big liners to Halifax and Bermuda, and t was one of those cruises around 1928 on t Belgianland. Allen, Pepe D'Albrew, Franc White, Sam Hearn, Russell Petterson and oth noted professionals were on the trip as Lest recalls and they put on entertainment for t other passengers, who included Broadw farers and upstate folks and this Jap fellow.

He had his young daughter with him charge of a beautiful blonde governess. S was an American. His wife, a Japanese, r mained home in New York. On the night b fore the ship made New York on its retu trip, the Jap vanished. Whether he fell ove board, a suicide, or was the victim of violen was never disclosed. Lester Allen was one the last two who clapped eyes on him. He sa the Jap entering his cabin the night of disappearance.

THERE was a great hullabaloo about t matter, the passengers being held abo ship awhile, then kept in New York for que tioning until they were pretty much tucker out. The officials centered their attention some of the actors and, of course, on t beautiful blonde, but nothing came of t inquiry.

Afterward, stories began popping up, as usual in all cases of mysterious disappearanc of the Jap being seen here and there. The l story I heard was that he was seen back in home in Japan, though whether he got there swimming or never left the boat at all a later found some means of transportation w not stated. I think the most significant featu of his disappearance was the fact that it w said to have been disclosed in an investigati of his private affairs that he owed gambl $600,000. He really rolled high.

Dear Nephew: I haven't anything special write about this time. I'm just hanging on a waiting for something to turn up. I'll bet tha what you're doing, yourself.

Christmas is a long way back and Easter's long way ahead. The earth is getting warm day by day, but not enough to notice. The l traces of my summer's tan disappeared a lo time ago, but it isn't time to worry about buy any sunburn lotion yet.

Winter doldrums always interest me. I exp they have considerable effect on mankind general. They are the times when things lo worst, unless you have something to fall ba on and hang on to.

My hunch is the only thing they're any go for, except eating and sleeping to store physical energy, or save what you have left, for storing up ideas. In ordinary times, I alwa go through the mail order catalogues this ti of year to see what I can get my hands on make myself more comfortable when I c afford the money.

Another thing I do is get out the books never get around to reading when there's an thing more interesting to do. Evenings wh things are dull, I knock off a chapter or tw stow them away so as to speak, and it gives something to think about later on when I running around busier than a mother cat w kittens.

It's also a good time to read history and bru up on the way things always have been goi except that we always forget. For instance, l night I got down an old history book your au picked up somewhere and read about the Russ Japanese war, which was getting underway years ago. That's when we should have tak our cue, but it took a brave man in those da to hint that our little Asiatic brethren might anything but what our government wanted to think they were. See what I mean? Jap navy," said Capt. James Q Yawn, of Bogue Chitto, Miss. Through a gap in the clouds he counted 25 warships "and I saw only a part of only one of the many anchorages."

(At Washington, dispatches speculated that the Truk operation "may become a 'Pearl Harbor' defeat for the enemy with many Nipponese ships left on the bottom of that atoll's big lagoon.")

The enemy's supply-shipping strength suffered another blow in the Southwest Pacific, where General MacArthur's bombers sank or damaged six ships off Mussau island in the Bismarck archipelago, south of Truk.

Solomons-based bombers and fighters, keeping up the smashing aerial offensive against Rabaul, sprayed 221 more tons of bombs on three airdromes of the enemy's once-powerful anchor base on New Britain. A total of 36 Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged, at a loss of one allied fighter.

Tokyo Reports Jap Troops Fighting in Truk Attack

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb 18—The Tokyo radio said today that "powerful mechanized units as well as airpower" had been used in the American attack on Truk.

"Fighting with our troops is now going on," a broadcast added.

This present attack by the enemy is not the real thing, and it seems that it does not go beyond the scope of a strong reconnaissance," said the overseas dispatch broadcast by Domei agency and recorded by the U. S. foreign broadcast intelligence service.

"The main force of our invincible navy is biding its time until the very end, and, coordinating it with the supply difficulties that will increase in proportion to the distance of the enemy's advance, is now looking for the golden opportunity to destroy the enemy at one stroke."

An earlier Domei dispatch quoted an imperial communique as saying that carrier-based planes had attacked Truk and "fierce fighting is now going on between our forces and the enemy."

Mrs. Steigerwald Dies at Crestline

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, Feb. 18 — Mrs. Clara Steigerwald died at 11:30 last night at her home on North Wiley street after an illness of 10 months. She came here five years ago with her husband, Harry Steigerwald, who survives. Mr. Steigerwald is employed at the Pennsylvania railroad roundhouse.

Mrs Steigerwald was born June 2, 1879 in Pittsburgh. She was a member of Crestline English Lutheran church. Friends may call at the Robert Beck Funeral home this afternoon and evening. Tonight the body will be removed to Pittsburgh, where burial will be made.

Lt. Walter Camp Rescued from English Channel

A BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, Feb 18—Lt. Walter Camp III of Hamden, Conn., former New York Herald Tribune sports writer and grandson of the famous football coach, was among fortress crewmen rescued from the icy English channel after ditching their flak-damaged bomber, it was disclosed today.

Lt Edwin R. Herron of Chicago, saved the sextet of crewmen after setting the Fortress on the water with one engine upon the return form a recent raid on the French coast.

Others saved include the bombardier, Lt. William G. Melillo of [illegible], O. Three other crewmen were lost.

New Blood Donor Goal Set

County Enlisted in Move To Provide at Least One Pint of Blood This Year for Every Man in Service.

The Marion County chapter of the American Red Cross is now trying to build up a list of donors to provide the city and county's share of the National chapter's goal of "at least one pint of blood for every man in service" by the end of 1944, R. T. Mason, county chapter chairman, announced today. This means, he states, that more than 3,000 residents of Marion will have to contribute a pint of blood each to meet the Army's and Navy's requests for more than 100,000 pints of blood each week.

The next visit of the Blood Donor unit here will be March 6, 7 and 8, and as on former visits the headquarters will be at Epworth Methodist church. F. F. McKinney is chairman of the Blood Donor service.

Any person between the ages of 18 and 60, and in normal health can be a donor, Mr McKinney states. Registrations are now being taken at the War Fund headquarters at 149 East Center street and the Chapter headquarters at 133 West Center street and may be made by telephone by calling 2864 or 2431.

Given Examination

Donors are given a medical examination before donating, and refreshments follow, taking in all from four to seven minutes. The entire process, Mr. McKinney states, will keep the donor at the center for about 45 minutes after which he or she may return to work or resume other activities.

"It won't hurt. It won't take much time. Think how easy it is to give that blood, and how badly it is needed. We are counting on the people of Marion to help us collect at least one pint of blood for each man in service," he states. "The men overseas are giving their blood the hard way—we are giving it the easy way."

The Red Cross went over the top by almost 300,000 pints in its drive to collect four million pints of blood during 1943, Mr. Mason said, bringing to approximately 5,700,000 the number of pints which have been collected since the inception of the Blood Donor service in February, 1941.

Need Is Urgent

"But there still is a big job to be done," Mr. Mason continued. "With expansion of the war in the Pacific and expected invasion of the European continent, many thousands of our fighting men will be falling in battle. Blood plasma and serum albumin can help the Army and Navy medical corps maintain their record of saving 97 per cent of the men wounded in action.

"Our share of this tremendous task is to provide 525 pints of blood on every visit of the Mobile Unit. From that blood will be processed plasma and serum albumin for use in emergency transfusions on the field of battle, on the high seas, and in hospital planes high in the air.

"Of the 5,700,000 pints collected to date," he said, "1,931 pints have been collected in Marion during the five visits the Mobile Unit made here last year.

"The Army and Navy report that the incidence of death among the wounded of this war has been cut to less than half the rate of World War I, and plasma and serum albumin are credited with being the foremost factor in this miraculous medical achievement. It is only through the continued support of the people at home in the 35 cities where Blood Donor Centers are operating and the more than 800 additional communities visited by mobile units that this record can be maintained."

Eden Hints Allies Will Dismember Germany

LONDON, Feb 18—Germany and other enemy nations can expect to be dismembered after their defeat, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden indicated in commons today.

The Atlantic charter clause which opposes territorial changes not in accord with freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned, is not regarded as applying to enemy countries, he said in reply to a question.

Meanwhile, Russia's proposals for handling a defeated Germany were reported to have been presented to the European advisory commission. British and American views have already been given the commission, which acts merely in an advisory capacity to the big three allied governments.

SIX BELIEVED KILLED

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 18—Six men were believed killed and an estimated 30 burned when a four-engine Navy bomber crashed into a Navy barracks and burst into flames on the trans-bay Coronado Strand, late last night, Coronado police reported.

Officials Appeal To Auto Dealers; New Police Car Needed

City officials today virtually appealed to Marion automobile dealers to "come sell us a car."

The vehicle is needed for use as a police cruiser, and should be a four-door sedan. The city advertised for bids as early as Feb. 5, but so far none has come in and Monday noon is the deadline for bids to be placed. They were getting concerned today since several preliminary steps will have to be taken to readvertise for bids if they don't receive any by Monday noon.

Council recognized the need for a new cruiser early this year and authorized the purchase. There are now two cruisers in operation, but one is unreliable but even so can't be spared from daily use long enough to get it repaired. The other is in mediocre condition. The department really needs three cars, and at least one in top shape, Safety-Service Director John V. Ruth pointed out. A new car is virtually the only answer to the problem.

blasted the German road bottleneck at Formia, just in front of the main Fifth army front to the south, and other allied warships shot at German long-range guns which have been shelling Anzio shipping.

Shell Hits Ship

A German shell passed through the bridge of one American warship without exploding during this exchange of blows.

The Germans apparently elected to make the costly drive down the main road toward Anzio because the ground on either side was too soft to permit armor maneuvers.

Prior to the heavy shelling of Cassino American troops were reported holding one-third of the town where they have been inching forward for nearly two weeks.

There was hard fighting yesterday in the region of Albaneta ridge, two miles west of Cassino, where the Americans are striving to cut the highway to Rome. The allies gained the peak of a hill but withdrew under a German counterattack.

On the Eighth army front snow blanketed the mountains, but an Indian patrol chased off one enemy detachment, and British artillery shelled enemy vehicles in the Miglianico area.

Allied bombers also attacked shipping off the west coast of Italy and attacked the jetty and barracks at Igoumenitsa in Greece.

(Axis radios reported an attack yesterday on Castel Gandolfo, site of the Pope's summer residence immediately behind the beachhead fighting lines).

Bound to Grand Jury on Attack Charge

Paul Yenney, 22, of 170½ East Center street, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of rape and was bound over to the grand jury under a $2,500 bond. He was arrested on West Center street by city police early yesterday morning for investigation. At a hearing yesterday he pleaded guilty to two violations against a 15-year-old Columbus girl and was committed to county jail until bond could be furnished. The girl was taken to Marion county juvenile detention home.

Japs Had Notice Blow Against Truk Was Coming Soon

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Our salty skipper of the Pacific fleet, fighting Admiral Nimitz, after baiting the Mikado's navy for long weeks in an effort to draw it into battle, finally has reached into the great naval base of Truk—one of the world's most powerful strongholds—and slapped the Jap squarely across his toothy mouth.

Of course there's more than that to our heavy assault on Nippon's key position in the southwest Pacific, but the most significant aspect of this daring action is that the United States finally has the striking power to permit of such an operation. Just over two years ago the stab in the back at Pearl Harbor crippled America in the Pacific. Today our ships again are masters of the waves—a mighty achievement.

As this is written we lack details of what apparently started out as a major raid on Truk at dawn Wednesday. The attack was opened by hundreds of warplanes based on carriers. A big naval fleet supported the expedition.

Naval Action Likely

Such a raid, if highly successful in shattering enemy defenses, might be followed by naval action. However, the original design of the expedition seems to have been to give Truk a merciless bombing. We have here, incidentally, a striking illustration of what can be done in the way of launching a huge aerial attack against an enemy from airplane carriers.

Truk normally is an absolute power-house of warships, warplanes and land defenses. It's Japan's Pearl Harbor, for it was designed as the major base for both defensive and offensive operations in case of war with America.

Loss of Truk would be a catastrophe to the Mikado. It would leave a vast and fatal gap in his eastern defenses.

Despite the importance of the base, there's no indication thus far that the Japanese fleet has come out to answer Nimitz's challenge and defend this prize. Certainly the enemy must have been on the alert for an attack, since only two weeks ago a couple of our bombers flew over Truk and obtained invaluable photographs of the stronghold. These provided our first view of this base which is one of the keys of the war with Japan.

Japs Knew It Was Coming

The Nipponese were quite aware of this aerial photography, for they not only cut loose with anti-aircraft guns but sent planes up after our ships. However, the doughty pair got away with their treasure, and the Japs thus were served with warning that they could expect trouble.

This attack on Truk, coming so quickly after our great success in the Marshall islands, is a most hopeful indication. It is a display of strength which indicates that we finally have the power to maintain the offensive which is leading straight for the Japanese mainland.

Truk is supposed to be as close to invulnerable as any base in the world. It isn't just one island but comprises some 245 islands and its lagoon is forty miles in diameter. It has unlimited facilities for a naval fleet, and on land can support a big army and air force.

There is a reef across the mouth of Truk's huge harbor, and this affords natural protection against invasion by water. Certainly any attack would have to be spear-headed by heavy aerial bombardment. Undoubtedly the base is defended with much heavy artillery, and this would be a terrific menace to any naval force.

Because of this, the assumption is that our naval fleet staging the present raid, stood well off from Truk so to be out of range of the land guns. A sally of the Jap fleet for battle, however, would be a gladstone event.

City Bus and Auto Figure in Accident

Minor damage resulted to a parked truck, driven by G. H. Harris, 31, of Worthington, O., when a city bus operated by James Arthur Clark, 24, of 216½ North Main street, slid into the side of the truck as it was pulling away from the curb, police records show. The accident occurred on East George street at about 3 p. m. yesterday.

TO RETURN TAX BILL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—President Roosevelt is going to send the new $2,315,000,000 tax bill back to congress either Monday or Tuesday—presumably with a veto. The Chief Executive declined today at his press-radio conference to say what his action on the bill would be, commenting only that he was returning the revenue bill to Capitol Hill Monday or Tuesday and that it would be discourteous to congress to disclose his contemplated action on it.

RUSSIA

started by the bombardment of hundreds of guns.

A mere 2,000 or 3,000 German officers escaped by plane, said a broadcast Soviet communique.

Hitler Orders Suicide

Adolf Hitler had ordered the trapped troops to hold their positions at all costs, Moscow said, and gave "direct instructions to the encircled German officers and men to commit suicide if their position became hopeless." Many did so, according to the Soviet communique.

The Russian communique said the last phase of the battle was fought in frost and snowstorms which followed days of mild weather in which Red army troops were forced to carry supplies by hand when their transport was mired by rain and mud.

"Abandoning artillery and transport the enemy launched his last desperate attempt to break out of the encirclement which had narrowed down to its limit," the war bulletin said. "Early in the morning German troops attacked in columns. Our troops met the Hitlerites with powerful artillery, mortar, rifle and machinegun fire. Scattered groups of Germans threw themselves hither and thither, but nowhere found an escape from the iron ring.

"Our tankmen and infantrymen, breaking into the middle of the enemy, wiped out the Hitlerites. Many * * * surrendered. By the end of the day our troops completed the liquidation * * *."

In addition to the heavy losses inflicted on the besieged Nazis Moscow said Field Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein's final futile counterattacks yesterday from outside the Red army's encircling lines cost him 1,800 men and 51 tanks and self-propelled guns. Of the booty captured in the 100-square-mile trap, Stalin's order of the day said:

"The entire German equipment and war material was captured by our troops."

Meanwhile on the Baltic front Russian forces striking south from Luga toward Pskov, captured the town of Malaya Utorgosh, 67 miles northeast of Pskov. At other points spearheads were 51 miles northeast and 27 miles north of the German-held railway center.

German Officers Desert Their Troops

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Feb. 18—Nazi officers, scrambling to board transport planes and flee the bloody Dnieper bend trap, shouted back to their doomed men to "Keep on! Relief will come," the newspaper Izvestia quoted captured Germans as saying today.

It termed the desertions by Nazi commanders one of the most sordid chapters of German military history.

During the last few days of the slaughter, the newspaper continued, the weary and hungry Germans still fighting within the trap were issued a triple portion of vodka and sent, drunken, to die before the Russian guns.

Izvestia said that in addition to the 52,000 Germans who died there, dozens of Junkers transports each carrying from 30 to 40 Nazi officers were shot down by Russian fighter planes as they attempted to flee. It said that of the 3,000 commanders who fled by transport almost 800 were killed as the Russians shot them from the skies.

Captive Germans were quoted as saying they began to fear the worst when they saw their commanders packing. Then came the transports, and they watched as their officers scrambled aboard.

Food supplies ran low, they were quoted as saying, and ammunition dwindled until only 30 cartridges were issued to each man every 24 hours.

MT VERNON, O., Feb. 18—The Farmers Exchange company warehouse, a 100-year-old landmark situated on the edge of the business district, was destroyed by fire last night. Damage was estimated by Manager R. O. Grosjean at $15,000.

WAC Corporal On Honeymoon Visit at Marion Home

CPL. HAZEL M. FLORIDIA

In Marion on their honeymoon are Sgt. Conrad J. Floridia and his bride, the former Hazel M. Bender, now a corporal in the WAC, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Bender of 221 Elm street. Both are assigned to Arlington Hall, Signal Corps headquarters in Arlington, Va. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Floridia of New York City.

The couple exchanged their vows in St. Thomas More Catholic church at Arlington, Va., at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, with the pastor, Rev. Edwin Lee reading the ceremony. The bride's maid of honor was 1st Sgt. Lucille Boedner of Akron, O., and Capt. Hyman Casselman, U. S. Naval Corps, of Erie, Pa., served as best man for Sgt. Floridia. The bride was given in marriage by Capt. Nathan Berger and serving as an honor guard were 10 women from the WAC, and 10 enlisted men. Open church was observed for the ceremony, and later there was a reception in St. Thomas More hall.

The bride enlisted for service in the WAC 18 months ago, trained at Des Moines, Ia., and before going to Arlington last October, was stationed at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. Prior to going into service she was employed with the Hoover Co. at Canton. The couple are at the home of the bride' parents.

SUBSIDY

hopes rest on the spanking majority for the bill in the house and a claim that 10 or more subsidy foes were absent the day the bill went through the senate.

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) and other administration spokesmen have voiced confidence, however, the veto again will be sustained. Since the bill originated in the house, that branch will be the first to vote on the question.

Senator Ellender (D-La) who supported the administration in the subsidy fight, predicted if the veto is sustained congress immediately would whip through another resolution merely continuing the CCC, and that the administration would continue its subsidy policy without interruption with funds of the CCC and the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Democratic leaders worked feverishly to line up at least one-third of the house members to sustain the President's veto.

Odds seemed to be that they would succeed.

The anti-subsidy forces boasted more than a two-thirds house majority yesterday when they sent the bill to the President with a 249 to 118 vote, but Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts did not recede from a prediction that the effort to override would fail in the house.

Yesterday's roll call on approving a house-senate conference report showed 78 Democrats joining with 169 Republicans and two minor party members in opposition to 98 Democrats, 18 Republicans and two minor party members.

The situation looked more favorable for the administration in the senate, where the vote on passage was 43 to 28, short of the overriding equation. To create a law over the President's formal objection, a two-thirds majority of those present and voting in each chamber is necessary. The senate can not act before Monday, after a week-end recess.

Marion Attorney Is Promoted to Captain

Theodore B. Ochs, Marion attorney, stationed at Godman Field, Ky., has been advanced from first lieutenant to the rank of captain, word received by his brother, William Ochs, states. Assigned as legal officer at the field, his duties will be to take care of claims for and against the government, process and review court martial cases. Also he will act as director of legal assistance officer, providing legal assistance to military personnel.

Capt. Ochs has been at Godman Field for the last year and has been in service with the armed forces since June 1942. Mrs. Ochs and their son are with him at Godman Field.

CONDITION BETTER

Cadet George Long, who is seriously ill in the station hospital at Fort Riley, Kas. has been removed from the isolation ward where he was confined with scarlet fever and pneumonia, word received here from his mother, Mrs. George Long of Johnson street, states. Although slight improvement is reported, his condition remains serious. Mrs. Long went to Fort Riley to be with her son, last week-end.

THIRD FOX HUNT TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Set for Waldo Area, Starting at 1 P. M.

Another fox hunt will be staged Saturday, making the third in a recent series organized by the Marion County Fish and Game association in an effort to rid this section of the marauders.

Sportsmen wishing to join in the drive are to assemble in Waldo at 1 p. m. armed with shotguns. Rifles are not used. About 100 sportsmen turned out for the last hunt and officials hoped that more would report for the drive in the Waldo section.

Since the snow, farmers have reported killing at least one fox a day, averaging about 15 pounds in weight. The pelts will be sold and proceeds used to restock the area with fish and game.

Farmers have reported considerable loss of poultry due to the raiders and game officials say unless they are cleaned from the area the game will be killed.

Medal Awarded Former Marionite

A former Marion boy, First Lt. Charles H. Reidenbaugh has been awarded the Silver Star "for gallantry in action" according to word received by relatives here. He is the son of Mrs. William H. Jaeschke of Chicago, formerly Eva Smith of Marion, and the late Harry Reidenbaugh, and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Reidenbaugh of 310 West Columbia street.

The medal, with its accompanying lapel button and campaign stripe, encased in a leather box arrived recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jaeschke and with it came a small type-written sheet with this notation: "Silver Star presented by Gen. Robert S. Beightler to 1st Lt. Charles Reidenbaugh."

Lt. Reidenbaugh was graduated from the Norwood, Ohio, High school in 1940 and in October of the same year enlisted in the infantry. A year ago he was commissioned and in six months won his first lieutenant's silver bar. He went overseas two years ago and has seen service in Fiji Islands, New Hebrides, New Guinea, Guadalcanal, New Georgia and now is at Bougainville where he is recuperating from a severe attack of malaria.

Lt. Reidenbaugh attended the public schools here. The family lived on Oak street. Mr. and Mrs. Jaeschke moved to Chicago from Cincinnati last December.

Preceding the program and business a potluck dinner was served. The tables were decorated with red white and blue candles with small cutout hatchets running the length of the tables on streamers of crepe paper. The chairs at the speaker's table were decorated with large red white and blue bows.

Mrs. Jean Purdy was social chairman in charge of the dinner and Mrs. Ralph Carhart and Mrs. Esther Williams were the program chairmen.

OHIO DEMOCRATS BACK FOURTH TERM

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18—Ohio Democratic leaders, hailing President Roosevelt as "the chief of all world diplomats, premiers and rulers," have indorsed him for a fourth term nomination.

The state executive and central committees in joint session yesterday pledged themselves to do all in their power to obtain Mr. Roosevelt's renomination and reelection. Ray T. Miller of Cleveland, Cuyahoga county chairman, presented the fourth term resolution.

The group indorsed State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson as Ohio's "favorite son" candidate, a formality to qualify the delegate candidates under Ohio laws. The committee also took formal action to relieve the President from a declaration of his candidacy in advance of the May primary in order to obtain the state's delegation of 52 votes.

Delegate candidates will be authorized by Ferguson to pledge him as their first choice for president, but they will do so with the understanding that they will cast their votes for Mr. Roosevelt.

No recommendation was made for a second choice candidate. Party leaders said such a selection, required by Ohio law, would be made soon. They also will select 16 delegates-at-large and alternates, each to have one-half vote at the national convention.

Selection of a date and place for the state convention was left to the new state central committee which will be elected at the May primary.

A total of 737 delegates and as many alternates to the state platform convention were apportioned among the 88 counties on the basis of one delegate for each 1,000 votes or major fraction thereof cast for the Democratic gubernatorial candidate in 1942. On that basis, Cuyahoga county was given 130 delegates and Gallia, Geauga and Vinton counties only one each.

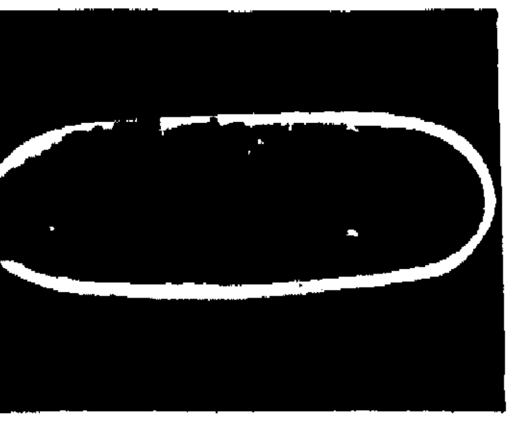
America's Great Green Bean Problem Solved

New Associated Press Food Editor Shows How To Use Surplus Home Canned Vegetables.

GLORIFYING THE HOME-CANNED BEAN: Assemble ingredients—beans, bacon, onions, chili sauce, seasonings.

HERE'S THE TRICK: Savory sauce makes a glamor-dish out of the modest bean.



GRAND FINALE: Serve topped with crumbled bacon—then dare the family to kick about your home-canned food.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

It was one thing to grow them it was another thing to "put them up"—and it's something else again to eat those home-canned products winter night after winter night. Nobody, I'm sure, is sorry that she did home preserving. But lots of women are looking with some dismay at dozens of jars of snap beans and thinking, "Why did I put up so many? Because, after all, a snap bean is just a snap bean." That's just what it's not! Turning snap beans out of their jars and boiling them ten to twelve minutes is not the only thing you can do with them, though, unless they were done in a pressure canner, you must always begin by doing that to be sure to avoid food poisoning. Ingenuity and inventiveness can be used on snap beans. Did you ever think of that? Let me prove it to you.

In the photographs accompanying this article I am concocting the following recipe, to serve four people:

Snappy Beans.

One quart jar home-canned snap beans, three slices bacon, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, salt to taste, two small (or one medium) onion, ½ teaspoon sugar, four tablespoons home-canned chili sauce.

Boil beans in their liquid, adding water if necessary, 10-12 minutes. Meantime, fry bacon over low heat until crisp. Remove bacon from pan. Add onions, minced fine, and saute until golden brown. Add seasonings and heat a moment longer. Drain beans (reserving liquor for soup stock) and pour sauce over them. Mix lightly to blend. Sprinkle crushed crisp bacon over the top.

Will that make a welcome change for your family? I'll guarantee it will.

Beans With Cream.

Snap beans, like many vegetables, take most kindly to cream. They're good seasoned with salt, pepper, paprika and a half cup of light cream poured over. Allow them to simmer a few moments to absorb the flavors. Or, even better, saute a quarter pound of mushrooms with a medium onion, sliced, in two tablespoons of margarine, for five to seven minutes. Then put the beans which you've boiled and drained into the top of a double boiler, add the onion and mushrooms and a half cup of light cream and let all this stand over boiling water for at least ten minutes. Delectable!

Beans With Celery.

Snap beans combine excellently with celery. Add just margarine, salt and pepper for seasoning. Or, if you prefer a cream sauce, make it from the combined liquors of the celery and beans, for heightening of flavor. Put snap beans into cream sauce, pour into a baking dish, and top the whole with grated cheese or breadcrumbs. Brown this under the flame. Or, make a succotash of your home-canned corn, combined with snap beans instead of limas, for a change. The combination is very good.

Beans With Cauliflower.

Make two cups of cream sauce with a quarter pound of American cheese melted in it. Put a half pint of your home-canned snap beans into this sauce and pour it over a cooked cauliflower. This is beautiful to look at, and served with sweet potatoes for added color and body, makes a whole main course.

Other Tricks.

Did you every try draining your beans the moment you open the jar, then boiling them in meat stock? It adds a lot to flavor. And even better, add a tiny herb bouquet in a muslin bag when you're giving the beans their 10-12 minute boiling. Beans take kindly to the flavor of marjoram or basil. And, again, finely chopped parsley sprinkled over beans, with the butter or margarine, gives their taste a lift.

How about making Snap Beans Bonne-Femme, as the French cook peas? Saute a small piece of fat salt pork, diced, until crisp. Pour off all but two tablespoons of the fat, add about ten tiny pearl onions and saute until golden brown. Add two shredded outer leaves of lettuce and a teaspoonful of flour and mix well. Blend this mixture with the beans, which have been boiled, and one cupful of the bean water, and let simmer in the top of a double boiler at least ten minutes. If you can't get the pearl onions, use onion slices.

And last of all, what's better than a salad of cooked beans? Do you use your home-canned ones that way? Boil them, as always, drain and chill thoroughly. Then serve them on lettuce leaves with a tart French dressing, or mixed with mayonnaise into which you've put a pinch of dried basil—or dried mint if you'd like a really new flavor combination.

This is only a beginning! Your own ingenuity will lead you into making all sorts of new bean dishes if you'll give it a chance and stop thinking that a bean is a bean is a bean!

UNINVITED GUEST FOUND IN HOUSE

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18—Every day or two, for weeks, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gavin Follis got the uncomfortable feeling their house was burning down. Finally, they called firemen.

The firemen found in the Follis' sub-basement a neat little hideaway. They called police.

Police Inspector Harold Jackson found 55 cans of rationed food, bacon, oranges, jams, jellies and other provender in the hideaway—and a cookstove.

They were wondering who it belonged to when the front doorbell rang and a young man introduced himself to Mrs. Follis.

"I'm Elmer Dale Cox, late of Wichita, Kan.," he said.

"I've been using their place as headquarters for quite a few weeks," the inspector quoted him. "I needed a place to live—you know how hard they are to find—and I guess they just weren't looking when I moved in."

Cox was booked for investigation.

The Follis house is on a bluff, overlooking a creek-bed. Cox's sub-basement hideaway was three stories below the main floor. An opening at the creek-side provided him a little-observed entrance. Smoke from his cookstove led Mr. and Mrs. Follis to suspect fire.

Sister of Missing Mt. Gilead Airman Enlists in WAVES

Miss Alice Rose Osborne, daughter of Mrs. Marie Osborne of Mt. Gilead, enlisted in the WAVES on Feb. 14, Chief Petty Officer John Dugan, in charge of the Navy recruiting substation reported today.

Miss Osborne comes from a military family. Both her grandfathers were in the Civil war, and her father was a soldier in the Spanish-American war. One brother, Major Harold G. Osborne, has been in the Army for a number of years. Her younger brother, William C. Osborne, is a first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps, and has been recently reported missing in action on the eastern war front.

Before entering service through the Navy Recruiting Station, 196 South Main street. She was employed by the North Electric Co. at Mt. Gilead. At present she is on inactive duty awaiting her call to Hunter College, New York, for "boot" training.

WED AT ASHLEY CHURCH

ASHLEY—Open church was observed Monday at the Methodist church when Miss Ardith Selanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Selanders, and Robby Roberson, son of Mrs. Litta Roberson, were united in marriage. Rev. A. B. Johnson of New Washington read the double ring ceremony assisted by Rev. T. J. Hangon of Ashley. The bridegrom is in the Navy, stationed at New Smyrna, Fla., and Mrs. Roberson has been employed as dental assistant in the office of Dr. R. L. Spohr in Columbus.

First County Tourney Games Played at Claridon, Agosta

Everything was in accord with the dope books for the inaugural card of the 1944 Marion county scholastic basketball tournament last night with the four seeded teams coming out on top.

In games on the Agosta floor, Claridon defeated Green Camp, 27 to 20, and LaRue disposed of Prospect, 53 to 25 while at Claridon, Morral decisioned Waldo, 55 to 35, and Pleasant bested Martel, 46 to 27.

The four winners automatically qualified for second round frays Saturday afternoon with the four quintets that drew byes for preliminary elimination tussles. Last night's losers have at least one more tourney game in store for them since this year's event is being operated on the double elimination plan. However, these teams will be competing in the consolation division, where a third place finish is the highest position that can be attained.

Claridon Has Trouble

A. B. Augenstein's Claridon team, the 1943-44 county champion, encountered the most difficulty among the four favorites last night as they could beat Green Camp, a second flight team in regular campaigning, by only seven points. Dean Augenstein, sophomore forward, led Claridon with 10 points while Ralph Hammon, stellar Green Camp guard, bucketed six baskets for 12 points.

The game between Morral, second place county team, and Waldo was a battle in the strictest meaning of the word. A grand total of 42 personal fouls were called against the two squads with five Morral players getting the heave-ho and four of Frank Furniss' Waldoans being banished. Richard Barkley, a forward, was high for the winners with 22 points, made on 10 fielders and two free throws. Dutt and Berringer had 11 apiece to head Waldo scoring.

Ted Dennison, who won the county individual scoring championship this season, toplined the 28-point subjugation of Prospect, eleventh place outfit, by his LaRue team. He tipped in 22 markers to divide opening night honors with Morral's Barkley. Stanley Kirby, Prospect's court atom with a whirlwind playing style, topped his mates with 11 counters, comprised of three buckets and five free points.

Merton Porter's Pleasant Township team was led by Center Almendinger, who made 15 points on five baskets and a like total of charity tosses, in its crushing of Martel's hopes. Herbert Moore's Martel squad, which completed its 1943-44 county schedule in eight spot, was paced by Loyer, substitute guard, who clicked on long set shots for eight points.

GIVEN UNRRA POST

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—Fred K. Hoehler, former director of public safety in Cincinnati was named director of the division of displaced persons in the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

The highlands of New York and Vermont produce about two-thirds of the country's maple sugar and syrup.

Three Games Scheduled in N.C.O. Tonight

A cursory examination of the three North Central Ohio conference engagements on the basketball docket for tonight most likely would cause the observers to dismiss them as dull, unevenly-matched games. However, they may prove to be exactly opposite types of contests.

True, Marion Harding is rated a multitude of points above their foe tonight, Galion, and Ashland is given a big edge over the Bucyrus Redmen in their tangle on the Bucyrus floor. Mt. Vernon also is favored over Shelby in a game at Mt. Vernon. But any one, if not all, of this trio of games could turn out to be a close fray all the way, with even an upset the outcome.

Ashland and Harding will have to beat their opponents tonight, and the Presidents will have to annex a win over Shelby at Thomas Edison Junior High school tomorrow night, if a championship game between the Hilltoppers and Prexies at Ashland next Friday is to be a reality. Ashland is currently in first place by virtue of their seven won-one lost record, which is a half-contest better than Harding's slate of six triumps and one setback.

Tonight's tilt between Galion and Dewey Bohyer's Prexies will start at 8 o'clock on the Edison court. A preliminary game between the Galion and Harding Junior Varsity teams will get under way at 7. The local Jay-Vees will be after their second 1943-44 win over the Galion Juniors just as will the Harding varsity five. Joe Petrich's Vice-Presidents downed the Galion reserves, 37 to 29, at Galion last month and shortly afterwards the Harding varsitymen clipped the Orangemen, coached by Robert Sheffer, 31 to 25.

Leading Harding against Galion will be Forward Fritz Guy, a junior, who tops Prexy point-output with 76 markers in 10 games for an average of 7.6 a tilt. Center Chuck Fazio is a close second with 74 in the same number of games. Sparkplugs for the Orangemen are Emery Shaffer, senior forward, Bill Miller, his running mate, and Center Bill Neff. Miller paced the Orangemen in their first meeting with Harding with a 10-point performance. Guard Slew Young was high for Harding with nine counters on four field goals and a free throw.

Ted Jacobs, Ashland's phenomenal forward, will be out to fatten his scoring total in N.C.O. play when his team takes the Bucyrus High school court against the Redmen of Chuck Tschanen. Jacobs passed Dick Mulvaine's old mark of 190 points last week when he dumped in 24 points against Mt. Vernon. This gave Jacobs 192 markers in eight league frays.

Shelby's Whippets beat Mt. Vernon, 49 to 43, in a first round battle but are not expected to fare so successfully tonight. That win over the Jackets has been the Whippets' lone N.C.O. victory of the year. Last Saturday night Mt. Vernon hung up a 26 to 24 win over Uhrichsville in a non-loop game.

Schedule Drawn for 5-Man City Bowling Tourney Matches

A late entry has raised to 82 the number of teams scheduled to roll in the five-man squad phase of the men's city bowling tournament at the Palace Recreation center next week. This figure represents a big majority of the city's league teams.

Fifty-nine of these teams bowl regularly in Palace Recreation loops while 23 are from the Marion Recreation's four leagues. Team pin-toppling will begin at 6:45 Monday night on the Palace lanes and continue through Friday. Additional singles and doubles will be rolled next Saturday and Sunday, when the tournament will close its 1944 books. A 75 per cent handicap of the season average of the top-scoring team will be alloted in the five-man division of the tourney.

Following is the complete schedule for team bowling in the tourney next week:

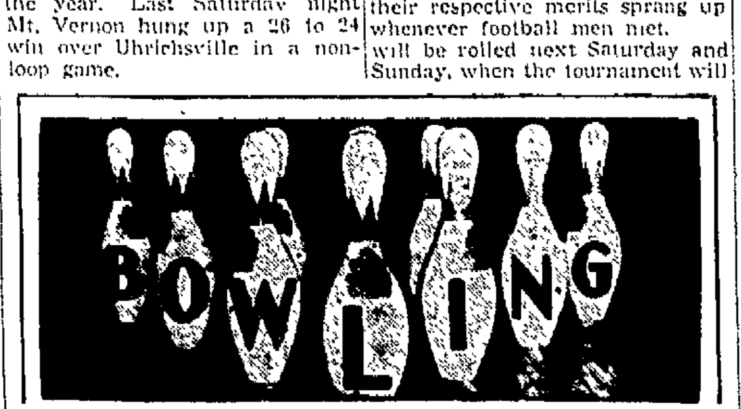
Sammy Baugh Awarded Passing Championship

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 — Sammy Baugh, the Texas ranchman, today officially roped the 1943 passing championship of the national football league.

Based on number and percentage of completions, this coveted honor went to the Washington Redskin star who owns a ranch at Rotan, Tex., while Sid Luckman, whose aerial artistry brought him the league's most valuable player award, was given the runner-up certificate.

Competition between these two sensational ball throwers was so keen last season that debates on their respective merits sprang up whenever football men met.



Best single games in Wednesday night bowling were turned in by B. Klotz and P. Snyder, who had 185 each to tie for scoring honors in the Ladies All-Star league at the Marion Recreation, Claypool, whose 228 was far and away the leading count in the Osgood Affiliated loop at the Palace Recreation, and, Moore, who found the maples for a 165 to pace keglettes in the six-team Universal Cooler Ladies circuit at the Palace.

Other high-ranking marks in the feminine All-Star league were L. Dalton 184, and Esta Hinze 182. Zeisler had second high one-game score of 209 and number one series of 563 in the Osgood league. Dalton's 506 was the high series roll among Ladies All-Star loopers.

Standings in the Osgood and Ladies All-Star leagues together with individual three-game series totals in all three Wednesday night circuits follow:

Richwood Winner of Union Co. Opener

Richwood High school, champions of the northwest section of Union county, last night took a county tournament game from New Dover, 70 to 20, to sound the opening gun of the county tourney being held at Marysville. Richwood kept a substantial lead over Darby throughout the game. The score at the end of the first quarter was 16 to 3. At the half it was 33 to 4. Fish, Richwood forward, led scoring with 14 points.

In other games last night Darby won from Broadway, 38 to 17. Byhalia defeated Milford Center, 36 to 23. Magnetic Springs took a contest from Allen, 34 to 18.

Games scheduled for Saturday night's session are Richwood versus York, Darby versus New California, Byhalia versus Watkins and Magnetic Springs versus Raymond.

Buck Track Team Opens Season at Illinois Saturday

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18—Spring must be just around the corner—Ohio State's track team, hardened by a lot of fresh air practice, will open its season against Illinois Saturday.

Coach George Haney sat down today to outline the Buck prospects and although he wasn't so rash as to predict a flock of championships for Ohio State there will of necessity be plenty of versatility on the squad.

That versatility will come about for two reasons—the need for holding down the size of traveling squads because of transportation difficulties and the lack of experienced track men on the Buckeye roster.

Whether the boys are in top shape for rugged Big Ten competition probably will show up against the Illini Saturday. Practice sessions have been held under the stadium and Haney described it as a place "well-fitted for developing hardness in those who survive."

Although only about 12 or 15 athletes will make the trip to Illinois, Haney has been working with a squad of 54. Of that number, however, only three are veterans from last year. There are 46 freshmen. Twenty are only 17 years old.

The No. 1 veteran is John Schmidt of Upper Arlington. Schmidt took third place in the pole vault at the recent Millrose games in New York with a 13 foot 6 inch effort and he doubles in the high jump.

Haney expects the Bucks to be strongest in the shot put with Bill Willis, a conference point winner last season, leading a group that includes Dick Roby, Ohio interscholastic champ last year, and Russ Thomas, a West Virginian, who did 50 feet in high school.

Another of the busy little bees on the squad will be Dean Sensanbaugher, star of last fall's football team. Sensanbaugher is slated for duty in the sprints, broad jump and low hurdles but he's also turned in some good practice performances in the shot put and pole vault.

MONTGOMERY, DAVIS IN GARDEN TONIGHT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—When Bob Montgomery and Al Davis step into Madison Square Garden's ring tonight for their 10-rounder, Bob will be trying to find something he lost there, while Al will try to lose something he acquired there.

Montgomery, former lightweight champ, lost his laurels to Beau Jack last November — the last time he was in the Garden. He gets another crack at "the Beau" in two weeks, but he must brush Davis aside tonight if he expects to regain the title.

Davis, left-hooker from Brooklyn, in his last Garden appearance, picked up a nickname—Bummy—which he has been trying to lose. He acquired the nickname and a life-time suspension late in 1940 when he fouled Fritzie Zivic repeatedly in a scrap stopped in the second round.

Shortly after that, Davis enlisted in the Army but was given a medical discharge. In his comeback campaign since the New York boxing commission allowed him to return from exile, Davis has had 19 fights. He lost four by decision, drew in two, and won 13 of which 11 were by knockouts.

Davis insists he is not a "dirty" fighter, despite the Zivic episode.

Montgomery has never been belted out and Davis has taken the 10-count only once.

Central Regains First Place in City Junior High League

Central's cagers regained first place in the city junior high school league by walking over Vernon Heights' now last position club, 34 to 18, on the Vernon court last night. The Central record stands at three wins and two defeats, a half-game above that of Thomas A. Edison, in second place with an even split in four starts. The championship will be decided once and for all on March 3, when Edison and Central square off on the Armory floor.

Central's England, a ninth grade forward, connected for five field goals and 10 points, to capture game scoring laurels last night. Vernon's Dutt combined three goals and two free throws for eight points to lead the victims.

Ralph Kelly's Central downtowners overcame a 6 to 2 Vernon first quarter lead and once in front didn't have much trouble in showing their fleeting heels to the east siders. The count finally was knotted at 6-all in the first period. Central stretched the margin to 14 to 10 near the close of the second stanza. Vernon almost caught up with the downtowners by garnering 14 markers to Central's 16 at halftime. Central's "wear down" tactics began to tell in the third quarter, in which Vernon was unable to score a single point.

Central's reserves also were victorious last night, posting a 29 to 16 win over the Vernon Junior Varsity. Pacing the winners were Forward Russell and Guard Jim Rea, each with nine points. Vernon's dozen markers were equally distributed among Ballinger, Andrews, and Ahrens, each of whom got four points.

Nickols Wins From Grubmeir at Armory

Jackie Nickols won over Gorilla Grubmeir in a two-hour three-fall main tussle at the Armory last night. Nickols downed Grubmeir the first time in 15 minutes with a drop kick and body press. The second fall was won by Grubmeir in one minute with a head lock and body press. Nickols came back to pin Gorilla with the same method he used to win the first fall.

In a one-hour event Tex Riley was victorious over Earl Malone, taking both falls of the match. He won the first fall in 10 minutes. The second fall went to him by referee's decision.

Antone Leone and Leo Jensen fought to a draw in a 30-minute semi-final event.

MRS. CLARA SCHULTZ DIES IN SPRINGFIELD

Funeral Services To Be Held in Marion Tuesday.

Mrs. Clara Schultz, age 72, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Schumaker of 2131 Beatrice street, Springfield, shortly after midnight this morning. She was born Aug. 13, 1871 in Marion county to Charles T. and Sarah Turner Clixby, both natives of England. Her husband, Edward L. Schultz died five years ago last April.

A resident of Marion county nearly her entire life, she attended the Baptist Church in Green Camp and Marion. She has lived with her daughter in Springfield since October of 1943.

Surviving with Mrs. Schumaker are two sons, Lowell C. Schultz of Green Camp and Clifford Schultz of North Main street; one sister, Mrs. Clay Wilson of Cherry street, and three grandsons. Two brothers and one sister preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be at the Schaffner-Denzer Funeral home Tuesday at 2 p. m. Rev. Charles Dotson will conduct the services. Burial will be made in Meeker cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after noon Sunday.

CONTEST DINNER HELD

A dinner honoring the winning team in a recent contest preceded a meeting of Paramount Council No. 37 Daughters of America, Thursday night. Mrs. Ella Dutcher, chairman of the losing team, was in charge, and Mrs. Essie Thompson, state councilor was a guest.

An invitation to attend the meeting of past councillors of District No. 4 in Mansfield, March 4, was accepted. The following committees were appointed: Mrs. Semah Carder, Mrs. Clara Neal and Mrs. Rose Seiter, resolutions; Mrs. Naomi McClaskey, Mrs. Dessie Carpenter, and Mrs. Rachel Stephenson, charter draping; Mrs. Merle Parr, funeral, appointed to fill a vacancy; and Mrs. Wilma Clarke, Mrs. Leona Bishop, Mrs. Alma Eddy, Mrs. Hattie Richards, Mrs. Roxie Whysall and Mrs. Rachel Stephenson, program for March.

A meeting of Harmony Circle was announced for Feb. 28, at the home of Mrs. Ida Uncapher of North Prospect street.

Richard Moore Rites Arranged for Monday

Funeral services for Richard Ray Moore, 18, who was found overcome by carbon monoxide fumes in the garage at his home, 201 East George street yesterday, will be held Monday at 1:30 p. m. at the Merle H. Hughes Mortuary. Rev. Floyd Harris of Rushsylvania will officiate and burial will be in Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the home after 7 p. m. tomorrow.

The youth was found sitting in a car parked in the garage, just before noon yesterday by a younger brother.

The body was taken to the funeral home where Dr. Richard Morgan, Marion county coroner, gave a verdict of suicide. He said death had occurred a considerable length of time before the body was found. The youth had been in ill health for some time and had been forced to quit school in his freshman year.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse A. Moore, five sisters and brothers.

Officers Elected by Olney P.-T.A.

Mrs. P. P. Kyle was elected president of Olney Avenue P.-T. A. when it met last night. James Lytle was elected first vice president, Miss Ruth Auman, second vice president, Mrs. Richard Faust, secretary, and Mrs. Randolph Anthony, treasurer.

Mrs. R. L. Gellman, guest speaker, talked on "Minor Infectious Diseases." Also featured on the program were tap dances by Shirley Kyle and Patricia Folk, a piano solo by Jean Drake, accordion numbers by Freddie Eyester and James Fairchild, and the musical numbers by pupils of the fifth grade under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. James O'Dowd.

Harding High War Bond Drive Now at $10,512 Mark

Sales of $893.75 worth of war bonds at Harding High school pushed a "Buy A Plane Drive" to a total of $10,512.50 after yesterday morning at the school. Goal of the drive, sponsored by the student council $15,000 for purchase of an army training plane. The school bond committee is urging parents of pupils to assist by buying their extra bonds through school channels in order to reach the final goal successfully.

Elementary school sales last week took some purchasers who had been buying from Harding, Miss Isabelle Stump, faculty supervisor for the drive, said. She expressed hope that the total would rise again next week.

For the background of his messages he will explain the early "paganistic" religious concepts of his Indian tribe, speaking on "Paganism Yesterday and Today."

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store. —Adv.

55 Head of Purebred Poland China Hogs, double immuned for cholera.
40 bred gilts, due to farrow in March, April and early May. These gilts are medium type, of extra good quality, and excellent for either breeding or feeding. They are bred to two outstanding yearling boars of good blood lines, one a son of Glamor Boy of Greenfield farms and the other a son of Ambassador, which are proven sires.
10 boars, ready for service, which should make a good cross for any type sow.
Five or more open gilts of extra good quality, ready to breed.
If you are interested in some good herd stock, don't fail to see our offering before you buy.
In case of bad weather, the sale will be held under cover.
Terms: Cash. Sale starts at 12 o'clock.

WHEAT DROPS, THEN REVERSES ITS TREND

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 18—After declining about a cent during early trading, wheat reversed its trend today and came back to around previous closing levels. Some of the buying was for a large elevator concern. Oats also were able to rally substantially but rye displayed a persistently weak undertone.

Weather reports were highly favorable for development of the winter wheat crop. Wheat seeded in the dust in western Kansas has now sprouted and in Oklahoma wheat is now furnishing some pasturage, according to trade reports. The bulk of the main winter wheat belt is protected by a snow blanket.

In 25 months, the Naval Air Transport Service has grown from the operation of one flying boat to ten full transport squadrons, several ferry units, and large contract operations by commercial airlines.

PROFIT CASHING CRIMPS PRICES

But Little Downward Sentiment Develops; Dividends Encouraging.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—Light profit cashing in rails skimmed the cream off the stock market today without souring sentiment to any great extent.

Many Wall Streeters trimmed accounts for the coming week-end and holiday while others adjourned to await outcome of the battle of Truk in the Pacific and European war developments. Dividends, actual and potential, continued as main buying inspiration for favorites.

Prices began to slip after a fairly steady opening and, with volume slackening appreciably, lower trends ruled near the fourth hour.

Down fractions to a point or so were Union Pacific, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, General Electric, Texas Co. and Sears Roebuck. Steels were about unchanged. Intermittent resistance was exhibited by Woolworth, Goodrich, Great Northern and Johns-Manville.

Cleveland Area Speeds Work on Landing Craft

By The Associated Press

PORT CLINTON, O., Feb. 18—Under the Navy's topmost priority the Cleveland area will produce $80,000,000 worth of landing craft this year, turning over to the navy approximately 75 craft a month to spearhead the invasion of Europe—and Japan.

These are the figures Capt. R. T. Hanson, superintendent of shipbuilding in the Cleveland district, announced to newspapermen touring the Matthews Boat Co. here for a demonstration of the invasion barges, or LCVP—landing craft, vehicles and personnel.

At this lake Erie post, where once pleasure cruisers were built, the Matthews plant of approximately 200 workers, most of them fathers or brothers of men felled or captured on Bataan, sends invasion barges sliding down the ways.

Eighteen barges are abuilding at once in the Matthews plant, and the workers set with production line efficiency. The age-old art of wooden shipbuilding is coupled with modern industry to produce craft constructed of fine woods and protected by ballistics steel armor plate.

Official capacity of the barge is 8,100 pounds, but C. M. Isenhower, Matthews official, said a letter from the front disclosed one LCVP carried 103 men one trip. In combat operations, Capt. Hanson said, the barges are used to unload men, jeeps, trucks and even light tanks.

In landing operations the barge develops a speed in excess of 13 miles per hour, to shove one-third of its wooden keel onto the shore. A tunnel design at the stern facilitates refloating, as the barge digs in and churns its way out.

Scott J. Matthews, 73-year-old president of the boat company, has directed the building of pleasure craft since 1890, when he founded the company as an offshoot of his father's lumber business.

Twice war has interrupted the company's schedules. During the first World war Matthews built wooden subchasers, and in 1942 the company started building Higgins landing barges. The craft were redesigned three times to evolve the present LCVP.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

HAD Marion heard and understood my call? She could not help but hear it—I had not spared my voice—but had she understood it, and would she keep the promise she had sent to me that she would fly to me if there were danger? I had meant the call to apprise her of the danger to her that I had visualized, and her answer came a fraction of a second later.

Escapes

Her body stiffened then she crouched, and with the ease of a school-trained athlete, went between the two other women like a bow from an arrow, racing toward the spot where I stood ready to receive her, while her mother, her stepfather and Dicky waited anxiously behind me.

But before she reached me, there was a bellow no other word could describe the sound—from the table, and the younger gangster "Big Tony" Carolyn had called him put one hand upon the table, leaped over it, and raced after the girl in her old woman disguise.

I never have seen any movements more beautiful, more filled with symmetry, than those which animated Ronald's body as he sprang to his feet, knocked a chair from his path, and then, leaping in front of the oncoming gangster, shot a lightening-like fist to the big man's chin, a blow that felled him. As he went down, he struck the side of his head against an iron post, and lay still, patently unconscious, whether from Ronald's blow or the collision with the post, I could not tell.

Hard Right

I had heard of the slender lad's prowess in boxing at New Haven; had heard his friends describe with glee the fun they had had hitting his unsuspected hard hitting right hand against big bullies who tried to pick a fight with smaller men. But I had no time to think of that now. Ronald had shouted "Take that!" as he struck the other man, and at the sound of his voice Marion had stood still, and turned as if to run toward him instead of coming to me.

I made two steps of the distance between us, and seizing her shoulder in an iron grip, literally yanked her toward the booth where her mother, her step-father and Dicky were waiting for her.

"But Auntie Madge!" her voice, unmistakable Marion's fluttered through her grotesque make-up, "that's Ronald!! Did you see what he did? And Big Tony is so strong, so awful in his rages, I'm afraid he will kill Ronald. I must go to Ron! I must! I may be able to manage Tony."

"Stop this at once!" I said, shaking her shoulder. "Don't you see that Tony is unconscious on the floor? He isn't going to hurt anybody. And we have to get you out of here."

Uproar

For the restaurant was in an uproar. The women with the gangsters—I guessed that they were relatives of Big Tony's—were down on their knees beside him, moaning. The older gangster, with one brief look at his fallen comrade, was coming rapidly toward us, while Milner, himself, had risen from his table, and stood poised, patently ready to take charge of the situation.

And then, from the door of the restaurant came a stentorian shout.

"Everybody sit down, and keep quiet. This place is in the hands of the police."

With my hand still on Marion's shoulder, I stood as if petrified, wondering whether we could at that junction get our girl through the booth, out of doors, and across to the apartment my father had prepared for her reception.

The cry quelled most of the restaurant diners. With faces registering everything from fright, anger and chagrin to thrilled curiosity, they settled back into their places. The big gangster turned from his advance upon us and dropped to his knees with his two women associates, bending over the unconscious Tony as if hoping that way he might escape recognition.

Turns

Ronald had turned toward Marion after he had assured himself that "Big Tony" was out, but Mary and Noel caught him by the arms, and said something rapidly in low tones which persuaded him to return to his seat beside Carolyn.

Only our group remained standing, leaving our booth clear for Marion's passage to the outer aisle. Milner, only a couple of feet from us with Redfield and Adams close behind him, had turned at the cry from the police, and was now shouting defiance at the officers.

"What do you mean, coming in here this way?" he demanded raucously. "I am the owner of this place. It's a respectable place, and you have no right to break in here."

"It may be all you say it is," the officer replied "but there's a man dead in the street outside, killed by somebody in here. And everybody here is going to stay put until we find that someone.

My eyes shot to those of Harry Underwood. Had there been a horrible mistake? Were the police searching for him, believing that he had killed the slimy underworld rat who had gone out of the world under his own power after attempting to murder Lillian's husband?

And then, coming through the door of the restaurant, and standing by the side of the police official, I saw my father, the "Chief" himself!

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Home Accidents

Yesterday we tried to point out how to save time of the overworked doctors in civilian life by giving some rules to decide whether an emergency existed or not. We discussed yesterday what might be called "sickness," natural sickness, acts of God—like fever and earache and the acute abdomen. Today we will take up the man-made emergencies—accidents and injuries.

Burns are the most frequent of these. The medical profession has had an enormous experience lately in the treatment of burns. The Boston Cocoanut Grove fire and Pearl Harbor provided some of this, but also the now very frequent incidence of burns in war industry. A large number of new methods and theories have been advanced. So many in fact that a recent reviewer said he was going to wait to make up his mind until such time as the existing 84 methods of treatment had been boiled down to 3 or 4.

These experiences taught the importance of plasma loss, and the effects of the general condition of low blood protein resulting. Treatment of shock by the use of plasma transfusions, as well as getting fluid in the body by sugar and salt transfusions, and keeping the patients warm have come to be considered the conditions needing attention first, even before local treatments are instituted. The new local treatments are many—sulfanilamide powder, sulfanilamide in mineral oil spray, gentian violet spray and boric acid dressings.

Home Emergency

But these are the problems of the surgeon after he has arrived on the scene. For the home emergency, the housewife need not depart from the old idea that the burn should be covered with some oil or grease. Preferably it should be surgically aseptic, but, if the burned one is screaming with pain anything will do.

The National Research Council recommended—"All burned surfaces, except the hands, face and genitalia, should be liberally coated with a water-soluble jelly containing 10 per cent tannic acid and 5 per cent sulfadiazene. Burns of the face, hands and genitalia should be covered with a water-soluble emulsion containing 5 per cent sulfadiazene." Those should be provided in your home emergency medicine closet, but if they are not vaseline will have to do. If the vaseline has been dispensed in a collapsible tube it will be sterile.

Depth and Extent of Burn

Surgeons have classified burns as of three degrees, but all the home emergencies need to know is the depth and extent of the burn—the amount of skin destroyed. For the small area burn, the above emergency treatment is satisfactory. For extensive, deep burns put the victim in a bathtub filled with lukewarm water. The water will protect the burn from the air, just as well as vaseline. Cut the clothes off the burned area: do not try to pull off clothing that is stuck to the surface, cut around it. Do not try to medicate the water. Wait till the doctor comes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. C. B.—What is the difference between rheumatic heart disease and acute rheumatic fever?

Answer. — Rheumatic fever causes rheumatic heart disease.

C.C.R.—What kinds of food should a person have who has colon irritation? Are fruit juices good or bad?

Answer:—A smooth diet is recommended. That is a diet which does not contain roughage or residue. Vegetables, whole fruits, whole wheat are conspicuous examples of roughage foods. A smooth diet consists of clear soups, meat, white bread and butter, milk, eggs, potatoes, jellies, ice cream and custard or jelly desserts. Fruit or vegetable juices are all right because they are absorbed before they reach the colon.
